ED M'CLINTOCK WENT; $425,000 EVEN SHEPHERD

Reveal Terms of Estate Compromise.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 15.—(Special.)—How the McClinton estate, which has been intact during the last few years as it passed from her to her, is to be divided was revealed today. If the courts approve, $425,000 will go to William Shepherd; $150,000 will go to Mrs. Isabelle Pope Veeder, former sister of Billy McClinton, the "millionaire orphan" of Chicago, and $25,000 will go to ten cousins of young McClinton, many of whom never saw him or knew of him till his death Dec. 4, 1924.

The total value of the estate is valued at about $1,500,000, but inheritance taxes and other charges will reduce its net value to a little more than $1,100,000.

In a petition filed in court here yesterday permission was asked to make a settlement of the litigation over the estate. A similar petition is to follow in the Circuit court at Chicago before Judge Philip L. Sullivan, and with consent the possessions of Billy McClinton will be appraised in a manner described roughly as one-third to Shepherd, who was young McClinton's guardian, one-third to the girl who was to have wed him, and one-third to the cousins of McClinton's mother and father.

Yield Cuts to 10 Cents.

But Shepherd's portion is a bit more than one-third and the understanding was that the bulk of the estate was to be divided among the cousins. The estate was valued at $1,500,000, but inheritance taxes and other charges will reduce its net value to a little more than $1,100,000.

The five years since McClinton's death his estate has been in litigation. The will was first rejected by the Probate court at Chicago but was later ordered probated by the state supreme court, which directed that the proper place to challenge its validity on grounds of fraud and undue influence was in a court of equity. That brought about the suit pending before Judge Sullivan at Chicago.

One Heir Is Insane.

The two heirs in the San Francisco court are necessary because William Bates, a cousin and one of the heirs, is insane. The court's permission must be obtained before Bates' guardian can agree to the settlement. Judge Sullivan's consent is needed in order that the terms of the will be not disregarded.

Frankly, the lawyers say, the division is a compromise, due largely to the fact that the estate was valued at $1,500,000, and $425,000 recovered from the sale of real estate. Added to that is an estate approximately $500,000. The bill sets forth the plan of division as follows: The sum of $425,000 cash or securities shall be given to the heirs—cousins—who will be $25,000 to the guardian or William Shepherd, and $150,000 to the heirs.

BE HARD BOILED, IS BROOKHART'S ADVICE TO DRYS

Senator Tells How He Got Results.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—Use of old fashioned, hard boiled army tactics of the Smedley Butler brand to dry up the country was advocated today by Senator Smith W. Brookhart (Rep., Ia.) in an address at a church mass meeting arranged by the United Committee for Law Enforcement.

The senator from Iowa, whose recent "expose" of the Willard hotel wet dinner party has made him a local celebrity, told his audience with considerable gusto how, as provost marshal of an army camp near Des Moines he cleared up the bootlegging situation and cited it as an example of energetic law enforcement for Washington and the entire nation.

"I picked sixty men and armed them with pistols," he said. "Those pistols were loaded. I told them to go out and circulate around and try to buy a drink. As soon as they got a bottle of liquor I told them to point their pistols at the bootlegger and tell him he was under arrest, then to bring him and his liquor to me."

7 Bootleggers Caught.

"They brought in seven bootleggers in one night. Out in front of the whole camp I smashed up the liquor. There was no use hunting bootleggers after that because there weren't any."

"If Gen. Smedley Butler were put at the head of our prohibition enforcement unit and backed up he would clean up the United States just like I cleaned up that army camp. He failed at Philadelphia because when he reached high society, the big clubs, and hotels, he wasn't backed up. What we need is a man of that caliber and authorities which will back him up."

Clinton N. Howard, chairman of the United committee which comprises the heads of all the various dry bodies of the country, proposed the creation of a separate cabinet position of secretary of public welfare to handle prohibition enforcement. To the effect of his speech, however, was the theme that President Hoover has taken the proper attitude toward prohibition and deserves popular support.

Crisis at Hand.

He declared that the critical stage of prohibition enforcement has arrived and that Hoover must make prohibition effective at once or dire things will happen.

"It is now or never for prohibition," he declared. "They're firing on the flag. They're nullifying the constitution. They're boring bungholes in the law. And they already have chosen their candidate for the next election. It will be the same old Al if we fail to make prohibition effective now."

Further words of praise and encouragement for the President were contained in a resolution adopted by the national conference of organizations supporting the "eighteenth amendment" held at Washington. The resolution "unqualifiedly commended" the President for his "steadfast stand."

Delegates Split.

The report on the conference revealed, however, that the delegates split up over the pending Shepard bill to punish the buyer as well as the seller of liquor. While the Methodist board of temperance and morals approves the bill, the Anti-Saloon league is said to fear its consequences. The report stated that the conference "advised delay in the hope of a final judicial construction in several pending cases in which, under existing laws, the sellers and the buyers both have been mentioned as possibly equally guilty."

Britain Pays $93,795,000 to U. S. Today on War Debt

LONDON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The British government tomorrow will pay into the United States treasury $93,795,000 on the war debt. Of this $27,000,000 is repayment of principal while the balance is interest. This sum brought the total payments to the United States, since funding the British debt, to $1,154,570,000, of which $174,000,000 has been in repayment of principal. The amount outstanding is $4,475,000,000.

WASTED SYMPATHY

DARTS TO DEATH FROM 2,500 FEET AFTER PAL DIES

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 15.—Despondent over the airplane crash and death of his chum, whom he helped to bury on Saturday, R. C. Williams, car flyer, took out a fast machine from De Lesseps field here today, soared 2,500 feet over the Humber river and then deliberately dove into a rock cliff bluff which skirts the stream. His mutilated body was disengaged from the airplane debris with greatest difficulty.

"Frank Soan, my chum, has gone, and one of these days I am going to get it all," he told a friend after acting as pallbearer at his pal's funeral.

"This friend, sensing a tragedy, mentioned to De Lesseps field this morning to warn the management not to let Williams take out a machine, but he arrived ten minutes too late. Williams at that time was hovering high above the Humber river bluffs, measuring the distance for his spectacular death dive."

Slays His Estranged Wife; Tries to End His Own Life

John Rochonopsky, 45 years old, 3134 North Kimball avenue, a laborer, last night shot and killed his estranged wife, Anna, 40 years old, and then slashed his throat with a razor in Mrs. Rochonopsky's delicatessen shop at 2152 North Laramie avenue. At the Belmont hospital, where Rochonopsky was taken, it was said that he probably would recover. Mrs. Rochonopsky left her husband two and a half years ago. Last night he entered her shop and asked her to return to him. Mrs. Rochonopsky ordered him out of the place and the tragedy followed.

Embezzler Is in Cell; Played on Cop Ball Team

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Benjamin E. Reynolds, 31 years old and $13,400 short in his accounts at the North Town State bank, is in a detective bureau cell with leisure to review his more recent career as embezzler, bootlegger, hiticker, baseball player, and bigamist. His arrest in the loop yesterday put an end to his adventures.

Reynolds last night told the story of his career since he fled last April 23. His pilferings from the bank this morning on that date, with $50 in his pockets and the local police on his heels. He boarded a train for Madison, Wis.

Opens a Beer Flat.

There he went in for bootlegging and baseball, he says. For a living, he opened a beer flat, and for recreation he made the police baseball nine, playing the position of shortstop extraordinarily. Reynolds admits he was popular.

When a rival bootlegger invaded his territory, he tells with relish, he and his partner set upon his rival's hirelings and hijacked them out of a truck and 100 gallons of booze. The police ignored the traffic, he asserts.

"Sure, the police knew I was a bootlegger," he affirmed almost deliberately. "But what did they care so long as I played good ball? Up in Wisconsin they've had a referendum on the Volstead act, you see, and the police there don't bother about the federal prohibition law at all."

Reynolds, under the alias of "George J. Ellison," proposed matrimony to an attractive waitress he had met at a boarding house, Ida La Gray, who went with him to Rockford, Ill., where they were married by Justice of the Peace E. H. Porter.

"Wife" Supports Him.

"She was a good sport," commented Reynolds. "I don't like to tell it, but I couldn't get work, and wife—she was a meal ticket. She made good money, five and six dollars a day in tips."

For a honeymoon trip he and his bride went to Milwaukee to take up a new life. Jobs were hard to find. So a few days ago he handed back in Chicago with 49 cents in capital. When he wired his good provider in Milwaukee for money, police intercepted the telegram. Reynolds was arrested as he waited in a loop Western Union office for the check that didn't come.

At 6123 Nassau street his legal wife, Mrs. Olga Reynolds, who had heard nothing of her husband since his departure last April, said she was willing to forgive and forget, and to take him back. One thousand dollars of the money he took from the bank went for a car, another $1,000 was spent on their home, and the rest was paid on family living expenses.

At an expense in Milwaukee, Ida La Gray raged at the police who told her "Your man left a wife and a child back in Chicago."

"I'll bust him on the nose if I ever catch up with him," raged the waitress.

ADOLPHUS PEINE DIES SUDDENLY WHILE IN CAFE

Adolphus G. Peine, 50 years old, wealthy clothing manufacturer, dropped dead of heart disease last night while eating in a restaurant at 1032 North State street. He was vice president of Alford Decker & Cohn, Inc., 418 South Franklin street, one of the largest clothing houses in the country.

Mr. Peine, with his wife, the former Countess Mercedes Benckowsky of Russia and the Argentine, were returning to their home at 3730 Sheridan road after attending a downtown theater. They stopped at the restaurant for a lunch and had just been served when Mr. Peine collapsed. Frank Turner, manager of the restaurant, summoned Dr. John McKinlock, 70 Cedar street, who pronounced Mr. Peine dead.

Mr. Peine was born in Culman, Ala., and began in the manufacture of clothing at New York in 1899. He was engaged in the same business in Cincinnati, Havana, Ill.; St. Louis, London, Paris, and at San Francisco before he came to Chicago. Besides his widow, who he married in 1922, he is survived by three children, Jack, Virginia, and Patricia. He was a member of the Masonic lodge and the South Shore and Olympia Fields Country clubs.

ANOTHER SUNLESS DAY IS ADDED TO NEW CITY RECORD

Chicago yesterday completed a sunless week, stretching its record for consecutive sunless days to seven with the prospect of making it eight today. The forecast for today is mostly cloudy with occasional light rain or snow and the possibility of the same weather tomorrow.

The sun shone for the last time a week ago yesterday when it peeped through the clouds for a few minutes during the afternoon. Since that time the city has been wrapped in an almost continuous fog, with low hanging clouds have on several occasions plunged the streets into semi-darkness in the middle of the day.

The previous record for consecutive sunless days was five, last equaled in 1922.

Train Crushes Youth's Leg; He's Unhurt—It's Wooden

Tulula, Miss., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Their attention attracted by the screams of spectators, trainmen saw a young man fall under a freight train here today. Trucks of three cars ran over his leg before the engineer could stop the train.

The train crew and bystanders lifted the youth carefully from where he lay beside the track and carried him gently to an automobile.

"Thanks. Now will you get me another one?" he asked.

"Another what?" some one inquired.

"Why, another leg," he said; "that one was wooden."

He said his name was Hawthorne and that he was from Chicago.

Flyers Speed Over Atlantic For Uruguay

BULLETIN.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—(Monday.)—(AP)—The air ministry announced that Maj. Larre-Borges and Lieut. Challes, flying from Seville to Montevideo, passed over Porto Praya, Cape Verde islands, at 7:30 a. m. (1:30 a. m. Chicago time.) All was well aboard.

SEVILLE, Spain, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Two aviators tonight were embarked on the great adventure of an attempted nonstop flight to South America over a route where five successful expeditions have preceded them, but where several have failed.

Maj. Tadeo Larre-Borges was seeking to fulfill a long held dream of linking Montevideo, capital of his native Uruguay, to the Spanish motherland by a single flight. His co-pilot was Lieut. Challes, a Frenchman with a distinguished record of other long distance flights.

Pass Over Casa Blanca.

They left here at 12:49 p. m. (8:49 a. m. Chicago time) today and at 3:25 p. m. (9:25 a. m. Chicago time) flew over Casa Blanca, Morocco. In the first three hours of their flight they had covered nearly 300 miles. They were favored by fine weather over the first stage of their flight and to night had a moon nearly full to light their way down the tropical coast.

The aviators intended to skirt the western shores of Africa as far as Cape Jubi, in southern Morocco, and then head out across the Atlantic, perhaps passing the Canary and Cape Verde islands, toward Brazil. They expected to pick up the Atlantic American continent in the vicinity of Natal, Brazil, and would then follow the coast line to Montevideo, if their fuel lasts. There was even talk of pushing on farther if conditions were favorable in an effort to set a new world distance record.

Plane Carries Radio.

Their airplane is a large white Brewster biplane with a 450 horse power Lorraine motor and dual controls. It was equipped with a radio. The plane carried 1,400 gallons of gasoline.

The last successful flight from Europe to South America was that of Capt. Arturo Ferrarin and Maj. B. Lei Preti in July, 1928. They set a new world record, later broken by Dieudonne Coste, of 4,600 miles in flying from Rome to Brazil in 48 hours. If the Uruguayan aviator maintains an equal speed he should reach the coast of Brazil early Tuesday morning.

Among the earlier successful flights across the south Atlantic were those of Capt. Spadure and Coutinho, Portuguese, June, 1923; Capt. Ramon Franco, Spaniard, January, 1924; Commander Francesco de Pinedo, Italian, February, 1927, and Maj. Sarmiento Beires, March, 1927.

Wind Is Favorable.

CASA BLANCA, Morocco, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Maj. Larre-Borges and Mechanic Challes flew over Casa Blanca at 3:25 p. m. on route from Seville, Spain, to South America.

Flying low and evidently intending to insure being seen and reported, the aviators circled the airport once, then disappeared to the south, following the coast. The plane made good speed from Seville here, covering 300 miles in three hours.

SECOND ATTEMPT.

Maj. Larre-Borges is making his second attempt to fly to South America from Europe. On Feb. 20, 1927, he left Marina de Plas, Italy, on the first leg of a projected flight to Montevideo. The route selected then was similar to that on which he started Sunday.

POLICE SLAYER'S TRAIL LEADS TO STOLEN BONDS

Fred Burke Sought as Suspect.

A motorist, murdered a policeman on a busy corner in St. Joseph, Mich., Saturday evening, terrorized a hundred witnesses, and made a hair-breadth escape. Subsequently the town police found an arsenal and a cache of $219,850 in stolen bank securities in the killer's bungalow.

The discovery aroused authorities of four states yesterday to a man hunt which, late last night, had yielded no results. The fugitive, who eluded police, deputy sheriff and constabulary of Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, and Illinois, is believed to be Fred R. Burke, notorious leader of a gang of bank robbers.

Two Descriptions Tally.

Burke's description tallies with that of the killer, who, addressed by a St. Joseph traffic policeman after a trivial accident, shot him three times with a pistol, cowed a crowd of witnesses and managed to escape after wrecking his own car.

Deputy Police Commissioner Slego, who was conducting a search here for the killer, said he believed that the man was Burke.

The St. Joseph city commissioners yesterday voted a $1,000 reward for the slayer's capture, dead or alive. The reward was swelled to $10,000 last night by pledges of Berrien county commissioners, leading citizens of St. Joseph, and by the insurance company in which the slain policeman held a policy.

Focus at Chicago Salesman.

For two months the fugitive believed to be Burke had been living quietly in St. Joseph, posing as a salesman for a fictitious Chicago feed company and using the name of Fred Dane.

The woman with whom he lived and who is now in custody had been shopping in Chicago on Saturday. Dane, as he was known, while driving to the Pers Marquette station to meet her on the 7:45 p. m. train, scraped the fender of a silver driven by George Kool, a young farmer of Buchanan, Mich.

Dane, apparently late for the train, grinned when the farmer demanded $5 for the scratched fender. He drove on, followed by the farmer, but was stopped by a red light at Main and Broad streets in the center of town, a block from the St. Joseph police station.

Farmer Calls Policeman.

Kool beckoned to Policeman Charles Skelly, 24 years old, on duty at that corner. The policeman stepped to the running board of Kool's car.

Kool drove on until he overtook the other auto and the policeman stepped from one running board to the other. There was no parley. With a contemptuous glance at the blue uniform, Dane whipped out a .45 caliber pistol. The first shot pierced Policeman Skelly's abdomen. He collapsed and was slipping off the running board when a second bullet struck him in the side.

The wounded policeman rolled to the curb and as he lay there the killer fired a third shot. Skelly died three hours later in the St. Joseph sanitarium.

Fears Trip to Station.

The killing apparently was for the deliberate purpose of avoiding a trip to the police station, where Dane would face identification for past crimes. Witnesses said he probably did not connect the arrest with the trivial traffic accident.

Kool, the farmer, stood gaping as Skelly fell dying. As the crowd came running at the three quick pistol reports Dane shifted into second speed, wheeled his car in a sharp turn, and sped south along U. S. highway 12. Deputy Sheriff Ben Pharis and Robert Inohot pursued him, trailing by five blocks.

A sharp turn in the highway hid the fugitive machine from view. When the deputies reached the spot where the highway crossed the city limits, fifteen minutes after the shooting, they found the car in the ditch with two wheels shorn off by a telephone pole.

Commanders Two Autos.

Dane had halted a passing motorist and was speeding on to Stevensville, ten miles southeast. The postmaster there saw him lose a $5 bill to the boarder driver, whom he had threatened with a pistol.

The bearded man, apparently terrified, sped away. Dane stood with drawn pistol in the middle of the street until Fred Wishart, a farmer of the vicinity, turned onto the highway from a crowd. Wishart later related that the gunman had compelled him to drive him to the house of Stephen Kany, a cement worker of Stevenson.

Meanwhile the pursuing deputies reached Stevenson and questioned the farmer. He showed them to Kany's home, where they learned from the cement worker's wife that Kany had been hired to drive the killer to Coloma. From Coloma, ten miles north of St. Joseph, the trail led to Faw Faw.

Trail Ends at Faw Faw.

At a Faw Faw dance hall the deputies learned that ten minutes before their arrival a man answering the fugitive's description had hired one of the youths in the hall to drive him to an undetermined destination. The trail then was cold at Faw Faw last night.

In the intervals of the pursuit St. Joseph police thoroughly searched Kany's wrecked car. They found a receipt for lumber, issued by Frank Cupp, proprietor of a St. Joseph lumber yard.

"Sure, I know the fellow I sold that lumber to," said Cupp. "It was Fred Dane, a big off man. He was shaving his bangs down ever."

Officers searched the bungalow on Lake Shore drive, skirting Lake Michigan south of the city, just ten minutes after the mistress of the house arrived. The supposed Mrs. Dane, a pretty woman of 35 years, admitted them cordially.

Arsenal Found in Home.

She denied that her husband could have done the killing. She maintained her calm until the searchers opened a bedroom closet on the second floor. Then she expressed astonishment when they brought forth two submachine guns, two sawedoff automatic shotguns, a high powered repeating rifle, and an assortment of small arms. Stuck high on a closet shelf, the police found the bonds, valued at exactly $19,850. The woman shrieked—her husband was a business man, but she knew nothing of his affairs.

The searchers went to the basement and were stopped for a moment by a growling police dog. When the dog was chained, they searched the shelves, finding 900 rounds of machine gun bullets, two sacks of pistol and shotgun cartridges, and twenty gallons of wine in jars. A dusty corner of a chest disclosed four bulletproof vests.

Suspicion that Dane might be a recently acquired alias was aroused when the police searched a bureau in his bedroom. They found new shirts initialed F. W. D. and older ones marked P. H. H. and H. B. Burke has been known as Ray Burke as well as Fred W. Burke, the records show.

Lost from Wisconsin Bank.

Information at headquarters indicated that a portion of the bonds were lost from the robbery of the Farmers and Merchants bank of Jefferson, Wis., held up by five men on Nov. 7. Last Smith, president of the bank, identified by telephone $112,000 of the bonds by their serial numbers. The total lost in the Jefferson robbery, by last accounts, was $112,000.

Still the woman in custody revealed nothing. She described herself as a Chicago resident, the former proprietor of a beauty parlor at 3214 Evans avenue, and averred she had met Dane 18 months ago. Since then she said they had lived for a time in Hammond, Ind., but spent the winter in a camp near Lafayette, Wis.

Of Dane's friends and associates she knew nothing. He invariably introduced them by their first names—many merely by nicknames, she said.

Beaten by Thieves

MISS CATHERINE TINNES.

Four members of a west side purse snatching gang were identified last night by Miss Catherine Tinnes, 22 years old, 5802 North Hoyne avenue. The men who snatched her and stole her purse on Saturday night at Byron and Leavitt streets. Two of the men, Peter Laszlo, 18 years old, 2245 Grand avenue, and Frank Marino, 21 years old, 704 North Kedzie avenue, were captured a few minutes after the robbery. The other two were arrested yesterday at their homes. They are Dan Gilo, 1905 Erie street, and Robert Emerson, 628 South Hermitage avenue.

In the last two months Dane had been irritable, devoting much time to solitary drinking and long hours to the books in the extensive fiction library in their home, she told the police. They had planned to marry two weeks hence, she said.

Two weeks after the Jefferson bank robbery warrants were issued for Burke, Gus Winkler, Robert Carey, Fred Goetz, Herman Anderson, and Herman Tipton. The description of Burke, six feet tall, weight 230 pounds, thinning hair, and hazel eyes, is Dane's exact description, according to witnesses of the killing of Skelly.

Marksmen of the Crime

Deputy Commissioner Stege said last night that the killing bore all the earmarks of Burke's work. He ordered a search of the known Chicago haunts of the desperado and his gang. Stege pointed out that the arsenal belonged to a band that would fight to the death rather than be captured and face the death penalty for murders in a number of states. He said that the gang, which consists of five men, operated in Wisconsin last summer, making its headquarters for at least part of the time in St. Paul or Minneapolis. Their last big robbery was at Jefferson.

The police of cities in Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Illinois have tried in vain for years to capture Burke. He is wanted by police in Louisville, Ky., for robbing the Portland bank there of $3,500 in 1928. The Hartford Accident and Indemnity company had a $1,000 reward posted for his arrest and conviction in that case.

Burke's gang executed the $300,000 holdup of an American Express office in Toledo, O., eighteen months ago in which a Toledo policeman was slain, according to the records. The Toledo lair of the gang was surrounded, but only Burke's wife, Julia, was captured.

Mrs. Burke was held six weeks on charges of being an accessory to the murder. Released, she was shadowed six months by Toledo detectives, who hoped she might lead them to the killers. She shook off the trail and vanished.

Accused of Gang Crimes

Besides bank robberies, Burke has participated in two of the outstanding gang murders of the last two years, according to police theories. New York police accused him of the murder on July 1, 1928, of the Brooklyn gangster, Frankie Yale (Tale).

Witnesses in the Morton gang massacre of St. Valentine's day were reported to have identified Burke and James Ray as the uniformed members of the firing squad which executed seven men in a North Clark street garage. Ray is Burke's right hand man. Seven warrants charging murder were issued against Burke on the basis of that evidence, and 7,000 circulars carrying his photograph and finger prints were mailed last April.

BANK ROBBED BY FIVE

Jefferson, Wis., Dec. 15.—(Special.)—The Farmers and Merchants' bank here, the loot from which was recovered today in a raid on the home of Frederick Dane, near St. Joseph, Mo., occurred Nov. 7 and was participated in by five well dressed young men.

Four of the men entered the bank and scooped up all available money and securities, after frussing up William S. Kiepert, assistant cashier. The men then ran to an automobile parked in front of the bank, where a fifth member of the band stood on guard and sped out of town without interference.

Officials, after a checkup, announced that the loot obtained totaled about $122,000 in cash and securities.

BATTLES RUN RUNNERS

Buchanan, Mich., Dec. 15.—(Special.)—Clarence W. Dunbar, county highway sleuth, who, in a relentless campaign against run runners and auto thieves, has figured in more sensational chases and made more thrilling arrests than possibly any other southwestern Michigan peace officer, was the principal in another thriller here early today, when lone handed he battled seven armed men and chased a whiskey laden truck and trailing touring car convoy from Buchanan through Gallen and Three Oaks to the state line north of New Carlisle, Ind.

At Gallen the safety gates were down for the passing of a Michigan Central train, but the rapidly traveling truck made another crossing of the tracks and passed through the business section of the village at 65 miles an hour. Half way from Gallen to Three Oaks a large touring car with five men waiting for the run runners turned their car in back of the truck and then the mad chase toward Indiana was resumed with an almost constant exchange of revolver fire. Dunbar tried to send bullets through the tires of the fleeing motor cavalcade but failed.

Three Oaks, unaware that a thrilling drama was being unrolled, slept on.

ATTORNEYS SILENT

Attorneys here representing W. D. Shepherd, the former Miss Isabelle Popo, and the cousins of young Billy McClintock refused to discuss the terms of the proposed settlement coming from San Francisco last night. A recent report in Chicago stated that Shepherd would have to pay $100,000 of his inheritance to Attorneys William Scott Stewart and W. W. O'Brien, who defended him on the murder charge. Those lawyers at one time made the positive statement that Shepherd had contracted to pay them half of whatever he obtained from the McClintock estate, and in addition Shepherd will have to bear the cost of five years of negotiations by his lawyers in the will case, Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin.

Attorney Orville Taylor, who represented the nine cousins, refused to say whether the $25,000 to each and the $200,000 to Mrs. Veeder is exclusive of attorney fees. Attorney John H. E. Lee, who represented Mrs. Veeder, would neither confirm nor deny the report that she is to divide a net sum of $100,000 with the nine cousins of her one time fiancé, a report that signified that the value of the United real estate is $200,000.

Prisoners Are Incr at Rapid Pace

(Chicago Tribune From Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.)—America's prison and very population during the past year has increased rapidly and still is keeping up and more criminals are being added every year.

This astounding growth in the number of convicted law violators, what prison authorities call an almost intolerable increase of penal institutions, is shown in the 1929 handbook of prisons and reformatories issued by the National Prison Bureau. The statistics are being used by Hoover's law enforcement as the latest comprehensive figures.

The big increase in the population has been registered in the passage of the national law, and the National Prison Bureau is producing a substantial increase in the number of prisoners in the federal penitentiaries. The statistics have been put there for the past two years of law.

Jail Figures Reveal

On Jan. 1, 1929, a total of 1,400 persons in the United States were locked up in federal prisons and reformatories, and the society's tabulation, as the bureau's statistics, are being used by Hoover's law enforcement as the latest comprehensive figures.

On Jan. 1, 1929, the country's population totaled 13,548,000, and the figures show, the increase in the number of prisoners in the federal penitentiaries, and the figures show, the increase in the number of prisoners in the federal penitentiaries, and the figures show, the increase in the number of prisoners in the federal penitentiaries.

Five in Five Months

Five times in five months have major uprisings, one in prison and four in state penitentiaries, occurred in New York. On July 23, the inmates of the Auburn penitentiary started a riot in the prison buildings. Two of the inmates were killed and four were wounded. The riot was put down by the police and the inmates were sent back to their cells.

The cause of the riot was the inmates' dissatisfaction with the food and the conditions in the prison. The inmates were angry because they were not getting enough to eat and they were not allowed to see their families.

The riot was the first of its kind in the history of the Auburn penitentiary. It was a serious blow to the prison system and it showed that the inmates were not satisfied with their lives in prison.

Upgrading Not Unexpected

The Auburn affair was expected, as during its investigation the July outbreak the New commission of correction men doubled up in cells and doubled up with beds and that there was no way to prevent pending completion of prison building program.

Analysis of the prison statistics presented in the society's handbook appear conclusively the statements are not only in the states breaks have occurred, but by every state are crowded and more.

The population at Atlanta was 510 men; in 1928 this had increased to 520, and in 1929 to 530. The capacity is 500. The population at the Federal Penitentiary in Leavenworth was 1,593; it was 1,629 in 1928, and 1,664 in 1929. The capacity is 1,600. The population at the Federal Penitentiary in San Francisco was 1,600; it was 1,629 in 1928, and 1,664 in 1929. The capacity is 1,600.

Big Increase Made

In 1929 there were a total of 1,400 persons in the federal prisons and reformatories. In 1928 there were 1,348, and in 1927 there were 1,296. ## OUT OF EVERY 1,000 PERSONS IN U. S. IN PRISON

Prisoners Are Increasing at Rapid Pace.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—(Special.)—America's prison and reformatory population during the last decade has increased roughly 50 per cent and still is leaping up as more and more criminals are herded behind the bars every year.

This astounding growth in the number of convicted law violators, causing what prison authorities describe as an almost intolerable overcrowding of penal institutions, is revealed in the 1929 handbook of American prisons and reformatories just published by the National Society of Prison Information. The society's statistics are being used by President Hoover's law enforcement commission as the latest comprehensive prison figures.

The increase in the penitentiary population has been registered since the passage of the national prohibition and narcotic acts which are credited with producing a substantial proportion of the added convicts. Forty-three per cent of all the prisoners in the federal penitentiaries are shown by the Federal Information society to have been put there for violation of these two kinds of laws.

All Figures Excluded. On Jan. 1, 1929, a total of 121,845 persons, or roughly one out of each 100 persons in the United States, were locked up in federal and state prisons and reformatories, according to the society's tabulation. These do not include those in county and city jails, where prisoners are held before trial.

On Jan. 1, 1918, the country's prison population totaled 75,548. In other words, 46,297 more convicts now are serving sentences than at that time and, the tables show, the increase has been mounting annually. Particular stress has been laid by social experts and criminologists upon the growing prison population and consequent overcrowding of both state and federal prisons as the explanation for the commission of recent prison riots, culminated by the outbreak Wednesday at the New York prison at Auburn, in which the warden, keeper and eight convicts lost their lives. The Auburn mutiny was the second at that institution in the last five months.

Five times in five months there have been major uprisings, one in a federal prison and four in state prisons. On July 23, thirteen hundred prisoners started a riot in Clinton prison at Danmora, N. Y. Three convicts were killed before the rioters were quelled. Less than a week later, the convicts at Auburn mutinied, firing the prison buildings. Two were killed in that affair and four escaped, one of whom was recaptured. On Aug. 1, federal prisoners arose at Leavenworth and one prisoner was killed in the rioting. Two months later, on Oct. 1, the inmates of the Colorado state prison revolted and before they were put down, 17 hours later, seven guards and five convicts were killed.

The cause that led to the outbreak at Auburn is similar to those underlying all jail riots elsewhere, in the opinion of most authorities. Prisoners are packed to suffocation with desperate characters, most of them unemployed, who have nothing to lose, but their lives when they rise in revolt and they would rather risk their lives than remain as they are.

Springing Not Unexpected. The Auburn affair was not unexpected, as during the investigation of the July outbreak the New York state commission of correction found the men doubled up in cells and the tiers crisscrossed with beds, and reported that there was no way to avert the worst pending completion of the state prison building program.

Analysis of the prison population statistics presented in the National society's handbook appear to bear out conclusively the statement that prison, not only in the states where outbreaks have occurred, but in virtually every state are crowded to capacity and more.

The population at Atlanta in 1907 was 510 men; in 1918 it had increased to 1,234; in 1925 to 2,549, and in 1928 to 3,233. The capacity is about 1,850. The population at Leavenworth in 1915 was 1,001; it was 1,422 in 1918; 2,595 in 1925, and 3,884 in 1928. Other federal prisons are similarly crowded.

Big Increase Made. In 1917 there were a total of 8,100 inmates in the federal prisons and in 1928 this number has grown to 21,833. Comparative totals for the federal, civil, army and navy prisons for the years 1918, 1925 and 1928 are:

	1918.	1925.	1928.
FEDERAL	8,100	15,250	21,833
CIVIL	1,000	1,000	1,100
ARMY	1,000	1,000	1,100
NAVY	1,000	1,000	1,100

The increase in prison population is indicative of overcrowded conditions, the situation in the state penitentiaries and reformatories is even worse than in the federal institutions. From 1918 to 1928 the state penal population mounted from 75,548 to 110,511.

Figures Given by States. Figures for the years 1918, 1925, and 1928, showing the number of inmates in the state institutions by states, are given in the following table. All states are represented, except North Carolina, for which statistics were not available.

As to the causes for the ever increasing number of convicted law violators authorities disagree. Some assert that it is an aftermath of the war; others to a growing disrespect for all law. But almost without exception, they all agree that one of the big contributing causes, more particularly of the federal prison situation, is the passage of the new legislation.

Sanford Bates, superintendent of federal prisons, in a recent address, declared that the narcotic act, the liquor legislation, the Dyer automobile act and the Mann white slave act "have tremendously increased federal crime problems."

"The federal government and many of the states have passed new laws which have inevitably increased prison population, but so accompanying legislation has been enacted to provide additional housing facilities," stated the report of the National Society of Prison Information.

"Of the 3,227 prisoners confined in three federal civil prisons and men's reformatories at the end of the fiscal year, 1928, 4,694 were sentenced under legislation of recent years:

"Under the drug act, 2,416; the motor vehicle act, 1,145; and the prohibition law, 1,141."

Overcrowding Deplored. Discouraging further menace of overcrowded prisons, the national society's report asserts:

"Overcrowding in the federal prisons at Atlanta and Leavenworth is now over 100 per cent of the capacity of the institutions; Jefferson City, Mo., Columbus, O., Jackson, Mich., and San Quentin, Cal., are seriously overcrowded and the same condition may in the institutions of a majority of the more populous states.

Idleness, the evil accompanying overcrowding, is seen by the society report as the most pressing of all the prison problems. This problem, it is stated, was serious before the recent increase in prison population, and now is more acute than ever.

"Prison officials, both members of boards of control and wardens, recognize the seriousness of the situation and the grave dangers of the next few years. Governors of many states are also awake to the need of action.

There is, unfortunately, an incredibly slight tactical basis for determining what policies to adopt and what programs to undertake."

8 AUTO DEATHS BRING COUNTY'S 1929 TOLL TO 972. A hit and run motorist ran down and instantly killed W. A. Necker, 50 year old salesman of 5514 Kenwood avenue, last evening at 11th street and Western avenue.

Necker's death and seven others yesterday increased the county motor toll of 1929 to 972. The other victims:

Archie O'Donnell, 45 years old, 2441 West Harrison street. He was crushed to death and John Kovis, 40 years old, 2316 Erie street, was critically hurt when, while repairing the street car tracks at 25th street and Western avenue, they were caught under the overturning car of Leo Kraus, 30 years old, 2125 Colburn street, which had collided with another.

Hazel Bergstedt, 10 years old, 8033 Main street. Injured last night when the automobile driven by her father, David, collided with a car driven by Lyle Hakalaminjak, 31 years old, 11221 Normal avenue, at 31st street and Yates avenue.

Lars Schell, 81 years old, 823 West 65th street. He died in the Englewood hospital of injuries received Tuesday at 68th and Morgan streets. The motorist, Fred Prescott, 31 years old, 6712 South Morgan street, was not held.

Louis Williams, 30 years old, 6432 Vernon avenue, colored, died at the Dailey hospital of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile at 47th street and Wabash avenue Saturday night. The motorist was Henry F. Schlegel, 1140 East 44th street.

Thomas Pastowski, 18 years old, 523 Will street. Struck by an automobile last night in front of his home. The driver, Stanley Lipinsky, 18 years old, 1425 Wolfram street, was held.

Joseph Golewski, 34 years old, 2311 Hillside avenue. He was found unconscious on the Archer avenue street car tracks at Paulina street, presumably left there by a hit and run motorist.

A man believed to have been Fred Dunn, colored, about 25 years old, was killed early this morning when his motorcycle crashed into a taxicab at 48th street and South Park way.

Janet Myers, 18 year old daughter of 18 Carleton E. Myers, 7369 South Union avenue, was injured, perhaps fatally, last night when one of two automobiles which crashed at 75th street and Stony Island avenue ran on to the sidewalk where she was standing and pinned her against a building. She was taken to the Jackson Park hospital, where her left leg was amputated below the knee. Arthur Palermo, 19 years old, 1115 Dobson avenue, and Michael Logello, 23, of 418 East 31st street, two of the motorists, were also injured. Their companion, Emanuel Tranquilla, was held by the police with John Holbrook, 7215 Euclid avenue, the driver of the other car.

Early this morning Miss Myers' brother, Carleton Jr., gave six ounces of his blood for a transfusion in the fight to save the girl's life. She is a senior at Calumet High school.

FRIENDS OF OLD SHUN MORRISON AFTER HIS DEATH

Not a Flower Placed on Bronze Casket.

Capt. Edward W. Morrison, who used to be a friend of every loop cabby and bartender, as well as of the important men in town, is lying in a "gold" bronze coffin, our most expensive, in an undertaking parlor on West Madison street. Of the thousands of friends he once had, few came to pay respects to the captain yesterday. Not a wreath of flowers was placed on the coffin of the man who was born in Chicago 93 years ago.

Capt. Morrison, the "millionaire millionaire," who spent much of his fortune in a merry life and even at a ripe old age still sought the bright lights and gay company, lay in his coffin unattended. In 93 years he had outlived nearly all his cronies.

The room in which he lay, its green plush carpet untouched by sunlight, was empty save for the coffin, a few funeral palms, and stiff chairs against the wall, unoccupied.

Spent Thirty Years at Sea.

The hardy, wiry little man, whose father was wealthy before him, ran away from home when a boy to become a sailor. He returned after 30 years on the seas, and becoming a ship captain, to spend pleasantly from a fortune of $8,000,000. His known courage and debonair outlook on life was with him to the end.

He was joking a half hour before he died, said Mrs. Anna D. Maiz, who has been his housekeeper for the last 15 years, and who was left $30,000 by his will.

Capt. Morrison died Saturday night in his home at 759 West Harrison street, where he had lived since he was 17 years old, when he helped his father sail shingles on the roof and paint the shutters green. Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock tomorrow from the chapel at 2346 Madison street.

Built Over Estate.

When the captain was 59 years old, in 1916, a suit to have him declared insane and incompetent to handle his estate was filed by two second cousins, Mrs. Sarah Morrison Smith and Mrs. Elsie Morrison.

Mrs. Smith, who lives in Chicago, is one of the heirs named in the captain's will. Apparently he harbored no resentment. Although she and other relatives who instigated the suit were successful, in 1919 the federal court ordered James R. Ward, Morrison's attorney, to return the captain's $140,000, and two years later his estate was restored to him in a living trust and he was adjudged a spendthrift, but not insane. He left an estate valued at $9,000,000, according to Lewis F. Jacobson, his attorney for the last 10 years.

Quota Victim Bled.

The only person who yesterday visited the undertaking establishment where Capt. Morrison's body lies in state, with the exception of a Mr. and Mrs. Brown, unknown to the captain's housekeeper or his attorney, was a second cousin, Miss Florence Spofford, 431 Arlington place.

"The captain was a gruff, eccentric old fellow, but his bark was much worse than his bite," she said. "He was vigorous minded until the end, although he was bedridden for five years before his death."

Her mother, the late Mrs. Hannah Morrison Spofford, had turned a deaf ear when urged by her cousin to join them in depriving the captain of the use of his money. Miss Spofford said: "Mother used to hint to him that he should move from his old home to a 'better neighborhood,' she said. "She had lived next door but had moved away years ago. But you could not budge him. He refused to have electricity put in until he became ill seven years ago, and until fairly recent times he got his water by means of an old pump."

Description of Home.

When the house was built both Harrison and Halsted streets were fashionable, but at present business houses surround the captain's home. One enters the house by means of a gate and walks up an ancient walk of wooden planks to the steps. The porch, says a bit, and the green shutters are faded. Within, a coal stove heats the house. A clock with wooden works which belonged to his mother hangs on the wall, and old walnut furniture fills the rooms.

The captain was born in 1836, the year before Chicago became a city, at Dearborn and South Water streets. Soon after the family moved to Madison and Clark streets. Later his father and his brothers bought the ground on which the Morrison hotel now stands. Originally it was three stories high. Even when he was 75 years old Capt. Morrison would stand treat for the crowd at a bar, taking his drinks with the youngest and best. He was a connoisseur of the Tom and Jerry, and bartenders over the city used to display their finest art mixing his drinks.

Charity to Share Estate.

The bulk of Capt. Morrison's estate, which has an income of $140,000 a year, will go to a home for the old and indigent of Chicago, a decision he made after he lost and rewon his estate, Mr. Jacobson said. Judge Kene-saw M. Landis, who gave the captain a clear title to his property, was named the head of a board of managers in his will.

Of the surviving heirs who were named in the will of his father, James M. Morrison will inherit $100,000, according to terms of Capt. Morrison's will. Miss Spofford, Miss Smith, the children of the late Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Bowers, a second cousin, and Mrs. Orson K. Tyler of Chicago, now in Los Angeles, another distant cousin, are the only known heirs living, Mr. Jacobson said.

EX-HULL HOUSE WORKER BUILDS 'COMMUNAL CITY'

(Copyright, 1929, by the New York Times.)
MOSCOW, Dec. 15.—A demand for a new system of town planning "to lay the foundations of life on a true Socialist basis, instead of along lines of outworn petit bourgeois custom," is made in an open letter to the periodical Communist Youth Pravda by Prof. Zelenko, who spent 10 years in America, where he was connected with the Hull House in Chicago and a university settlement in New York.

He is now supervising the new "communal city" being erected at Stalingrad, which is situated at the juncture of the projected Volga-Dnieper canal and which expects to wrest from Samara the proud title of queen of the Volga.

M. Zelenko told Miss Kingsbury, sociologist of Bryn Mawr college, that his program involved not only communal kitchens, dining halls, laundries and hospitals, but also that the children, born in the communal hospital, should not live with their parents but be brought up in communal kindergartens and schools and should sleep in communal dormitories.

TIPSY PAIR STEAL POLICE FLYOVER.
Chicago Lawn police were searching last night for two intoxicated youths who stole a police flyover in front of the station early yesterday, waved fairly to Policemen Patrick Malloy, and abandoned the machine, undamaged, at 30th street and Ashland avenue.

TEXAS BOWS TO U. S.; WILL NOT ARREST CALLES

Stimson Insists Mexican Is a Diplomat.

Laredo, Tex., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Telegrams passing between Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and District Attorney Valls of Laredo today brought a climax to the controversy over what might happen to Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, former president of Mexico, who is supposed to pass through here Tuesday en route to Mexico.

These telegrams tell a plain story and it is evident that the wishes of the secretary of state will secure safe passage of Calles.

Telegram to Stimson.

District Attorney Valls had prepared to send picked officers to intercept and arrest Calles at a point between San Antonio and Laredo and bring him here in an automobile, but before doing so he sent the following telegram last night to Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson:

"For my correct guidance, kindly advise me whether Calles enjoys such diplomatic immunity as exempts him from arrest and prosecution for crimes committed in Texas, and will my government protect that immunity with armed force? If so, his person will not be molested. Otherwise I will attempt to arrest him on entering the confines of Texas. Involving and apprehending full information, I am, your obedient servant, JOHN A. VALLS, District Attorney."

Receives This Reply.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon Valls received the following telegram from Mr. Stimson in Washington, D. C.: "Replying to your telegram of Dec. 14, Gen. Calles, who is traveling through the United States in company with the ambassador of Mexico, has been engaged in diplomatic conversations on international matters with representatives of the United States. His diplomatic quality is recognized by the government of the United States. He, therefore, is entitled to protection from arrest or molestation while within the confines of the United States."

"The United States is prepared to take such steps as may be necessary to insure to Gen. Calles the protection which is due him. I find it difficult to believe that an officer of the law, whether federal or state, would be willing to take an action which would militate against his diplomatic status."

"HENRY L. STIMSON, Secretary of State."

There is a warrant in the hands of the sheriff, Joe Condren, of Webb county for the arrest of Gen. Calles and others charging him with conspiracy to murder Gen. Lucio Blanco on June 7, 1928, in Laredo. This warrant has all the legal requirements of the law proceeding it.

Sheriff Joe Condren said he would serve or attempt to serve any citation or warrant given him by District Attorney Valls in this case or any other case where it became necessary to do so, and that he would have attempted to serve a warrant on Calles had he

PRESIDENT ELECT OF MEXICO TO CONSULT HEALTH SPECIALIST

New York, Dec. 15.—(AP)—President-elect Pascual Ortiz Rubio of Mexico left this morning for Baltimore, Md., where he is to consult specialists about his health.

He was accompanied by the party which traveled with him from Mexico, and by Dr. M. Eug. Casarano, chief of the federal district of Mexico, who joined the group here.

Officials of the consulate general of Mexico in New York were among a large group of friends who saw the party off at the Pennsylvania station.

not been granted immunity by the federal government.

Public opinion in Webb county apparently is behind Valls in the discharge of his duty in the prosecution of Calles or any other person who is charged with a crime committed in this country. It is the opinion of leading citizens here that Calles would get a fair trial should he ever be brought into court to answer the charges against him.

Enlisted from Their Homes.

Calles is charged with being implicated in the deaths of Gen. Blanco and Col. Aurelio Martinez, who were enlisted from their homes in a hotel in Laredo and taken to the banks of the Rio Grande river, placed in a boat under the impression that they were being taken into Mexico to head a body of soldiers near the river in Mexico for the overthrow of the Mexican government.

Two Americans, Constable Duke Carver of San Antonio and Capt. Allen Walker, ex-Texas ranger, who now is in hiding in Mexico, have been indicted for the murder of Blanco and Martinez. Carver's trial has been set and postponed once this month. He is under bond.

Secret Service Man Slain.

With Blanco and Martinez at the time of their arrest was Ramon Garcia, head of the Mexican secret service, who also was killed at the time of the murder. It is said that Garcia carried a bribe money.

The bodies of Blanco and Martinez were taken out of the Rio Grande river just above the international bridge handcuffed together. Martinez was shot in the head and Blanco apparently was drowned. Garcia was shot and his body found near that of the other two.

Blanco was chief of staff under President Diaz and Martinez was his aid. Maj. W. F. Thompson, commanding officer at Fort McIntosh, said that he had not been instructed to meet Gen. Calles and that he knew nothing of according him either a guard of honor or one for protection. He would not be at the depot without orders by Washington.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—The American government's decision to approve a visa on a diplomatic passport granted to Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles by the Mexican government was prompted by "international courtesy" and not by a desire to protect the former Mexican official from arrest on a charge of murder, state department officials asserted today.

These officials stated, however, that the visaed diplomatic passport gives Gen. Calles immunity from arrest.

Mr. Calles, just returned from a European trip, now is in New York preparing to return to Mexico. A few days ago District Attorney John A. Valls of Laredo, Tex., threatened to arrest him if he passed through Laredo. He wired Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson if that would be possible. In reply Secretary Stimson advised Mr. Valls that Calles is clothed with full diplomatic immunity from arrest while traveling in this country.

Emphasize Three Facts.

In discussing the affair today department officials stressed three facts. The first one was that, although Calles is a private citizen, custom entitles him, as an ex-president, to a diplomatic passport not available to ordinary citizens. In the second place, they said, Calles had aided the Mexican ambassador in diplomatic negotiations with American officials, and Mr. Stimson wired Mr. Valls this placed him in the status of a diplomat.

In the third place, the diplomatic passport was not issued by the American government, but by the Mexican government. The American ambassador at Mexico City, it was said, simply visaed the passport which was presented in behalf of Gen. Calles on July 12. This action, department officials asserted, was required by "international courtesy."

The United States government issues diplomatic passports to its high officials and also to its high ranking former officials which are visaed by foreign governments when the Americans travel abroad. The United States expects that foreign governments will extend to the bearer of an American diplomatic passport abroad all the immunities appertaining to a diplomat. They explained that in the Calles case the United States has extended to Calles the same immunities which the United States expects other governments to accord the bearers of American diplomatic passports.

Not Trying to Protect Him.

Intimations which have reached the state department to the effect that the department had visaed "the Mexican diplomatic passport primarily to protect Calles from arrest at the hands of District Attorney Valls" were denied by Arthur Lane, chief of Mexican affairs at the state department.

"The Laredo case had nothing to do with our decision to visa the Calles passport," Mr. Lane said.

State department officials made it apparent that so long as the Mexican government will give Mr. Calles diplomatic passports that individual will be able to travel in the United States without fear of arrest. Arrest of a person traveling under such a passport carries a three year maximum penalty to the arresting officers.

COALITION HITS ROCKS IN RECENT SENATE STORMS

New Alignments Threaten Continuance of Power.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—(Special.)—Democratization has hit the camp of the senate coalition.

The radicals are running around in circles and the Democrats are pausing to take stock of the situation. Administration Republicans are happier than they have been for some time. The reason may be found in events of the last ten days, which have for the time being at least produced new alignments. Not only has the coalition broken down but there has been a split within the ranks of the radical Republicans. The extreme radicals, who not so long ago were dominating the senate, have suddenly found themselves on the losing side, and what many regard as the unpopular side, of a number of issues.

Series of Reverses. Significant happenings in the senate have included the following: Yesterday's passage of the administration tax reduction resolution by a combination of Republican and Democratic regulars with the radicals vainly protesting against an action which means a substantial saving to income tax payers.

Defeat of Joseph R. Grundy, who will be immensely more powerful on behalf of interests which are anathema to the radicals than William E. Vare, who was elected by the voters of Pennsylvania but was denied a seat.

Boosting of duties on wool, wool waste, and wool rags by a new senate combination with extreme radicals and many Democrats voting no.

Revelations before the senate lobby committee which place an unfavorable light upon the activities of those who have been opposing an increase in the duty upon sugar and with whom the radicals have been more or less allied.

A split among senate radicals on the question of whether policies of the Hoover farm board have helped agriculture, some of them noting evidence that its work has made a hit among the wheat farmers in the northwest.

Some of the Democratic senate leaders are none too pleased to have themselves constantly paraded before the country as a part of a coalition largely dominated by radicals. They recall the reaction against a similar coalition which appeared in the senate in the winter preceding the 1934 election and which paved the way for a sweeping Republican victory.

The most influential Democrats think it was good politics to cooperate with the administration in putting through the tax reduction resolution. They accuse the radicals of being against it just because it is their habit always to oppose the administration. Incidentally, some of the radicals abused the Democrats during yesterday's debate.

Proves a Boomerang. The Grundy incident is regarded as the biggest joke of the session on the radicals. Many constitutional authorities always have contended that the senate had no right to bar Vare, whose chief offense was the expenditure of a large sum of money in his primary campaign, but who was legally elected by the voters of Pennsylvania, according to the report of the senate elections committee.

If Vare, who is broken physically as a result of a paralytic stroke, had been seated he probably would have had but little influence in the senate.

A few radicals were for throwing out Grundy, but most of the members of their group did not dare to refuse admission to a man regularly appointed by a governor and against whom there was no specific charge other than that he had been a lobbyist and had ventured to tell senators from "backward" states what he thought of them.

Hence the same senators who kept out Vare were forced to seat some one who had been identified with a ticket for which three times as much money had been expended as in the Vare campaign and who will be several times as influential in the senate.

YOUTH ACCIDENTALLY SHOT. Stanley Rahn, 18 years old, 949 West 51st street, was accidentally shot in the right chest by a companion, Joseph Breit, 19 years old, 915 West 51st street, while the two were shooting at rats in an alley near their homes yesterday.

Diet Helps Winner

A select diet of beef and spinach has made Vagabond King the cat he is today, his owner, Mrs. C. E. Springer, Detroit, said last night after he was given a blue ribbon and adjudged the best cat in the annual cat show of the Chicago Persian Cat society.

Vagabond King was one of 170 blue-blooded Persian cats entered in the show, held in the Hotel La Salle. Not only does Vagabond King have an apartment of his own, he has a bath once a week, is dried by an electric heater and has a rubdown with a Turkish bath towel, Mrs. Springer explained.

SENATOR GRUNDY TO ENTER RACE IN JUNE PRIMARY

New York, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Joseph R. Grundy, newly appointed senator from Pennsylvania, today said he intended to be a candidate to succeed himself in the Pennsylvania primaries next June.

The senator made the announcement in his hotel suite here while entertaining a party of Pennsylvanians, including Gov. John S. Fisher of Pennsylvania, who appointed him to the seat denied by the senate to William S. Vare.

CRADLE OF MAN FOUND IN CHINA, SCIENTISTS HINT

Ten Skeletons and Skull Unearthed in Quarry.

PEIPING, China, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Scientists today hinted that ten skeletons unearthed simultaneously with an unbroken skull found in the quarries at Chow Outien, 30 miles from here, may be the nearest approach yet made to finding the ancestors of the human race.

The skull was unearthed by a Chinese geologist, who claimed it belonged to a species of the famous "Peking man," the "Sinanthropus Pekinensis," said to be associated with the period of the Pliocene skull and the Java ape man.

Greatest Find Ever Made. While the scientists who knew of the discoveries were sworn to secrecy, it was understood here that they regard them as perhaps the greatest human find ever made. The skull as well as the ten skeletons were said to be in a splendid state of preservation.

The scientists continued their search in the hope of finding more skulls. Nine of the skeletons were headless.

The discoveries were made in the same limestone quarries where the "monkey man" jaw teeth were found in 1923. The location of the skeletons was said to have convinced the discoverers that the ancient home of a distinct type of primitive man had been uncovered.

Sketch Man of Million Years Ago. It was understood that the scientists believe that, with the various skeletons as well as the complete skull, they have material enough to reconstruct the entire drama of the life of the prehistoric colony, or at least to sketch a portrait of man as he existed in the region of Peiping more than a million years ago.

In addition to the human skull and the skeletons, the fossil skull of a rhinoceros has been found in the quarry. Also, there were uncovered heaps of bones believed to be those of other animals. Many of the bones were clearly broken as if by human hands, possibly, the scientists believe, by hungry men seeking marrow as food.

May Have Been Burial Ground. The scientists were unable to account for the fact that ten skeletons were found, while only one skull was located. One theory advanced was that the limestone bed might have been a burial ground for persons who had been beheaded, and that the heads had been deposited somewhere else.

Dr. J. Q. Anderson, Swedish adviser to the Chinese geological survey, and other researchers, are hunting eagerly for the heads. Walter Granger, paleontologist for the American Museum of Natural History, in New York, visited the quarry in 1927. Mr. Granger is at present in New York.

AGE OF EARTH ADVANCED. The first trace of the "Peking man" was discovered in 1920 by Dr. A.

Zdenek, a Russian, who found a tooth near the site where the latest discoveries have been reported. A second tooth was found by Dr. Birger Böhlin, a young Swedish scientist, and was identified and named by Dr. Davidson Black, an American at Peking Union Medical college.

Dr. Black placed the "Peking man" on a stage of development between the modern human and the anthropoid apes. The time estimate of 1,000,000 years ago as the period in which the "Peking man" inhabited the district was based on recent advances in geology whereby the earth's age and that of its living creatures is calculated at far higher figures than it was a few years ago. By that scale the "Peking man" was believed to antedate the Neanderthal man, and to be about contemporaneous with the Heidelberg man of Europe.

JAPANESE HERE ON PARLEY TRIP EXPLAIN POLICY

Ask Delay in Replacement of Capital Ships.

Japanese delegates to the London conference held a half-day session here today. They are due this morning at Washington, where they will be feted by the Japanese community. They will leave for New York in three days. They will sail Dec. 20 for England.

The delegates are prepared, they say, to support any move for replacement of capital ships at the conference, mainly because it would lighten the financial burden of their country.

While there will be no change in the ratio of capital ships, "Wakatsuki explained, "we stand ready to bring up the question of replacement of time when the ratio of capital ships with new craft, which was pointed out as necessary at the Washington conference. We will not postpone the building of new ships because such action would lighten our tax burden."

"However, as auxiliary craft are considered, however, Japan not only does not intend to compete with other nations, but will retain a certain superiority in the use of capital ships as compared with the powers having the greatest naval strength. We are satisfied with our present force, and other countries, the Japanese delegation has convinced us we must insist upon this ratio."

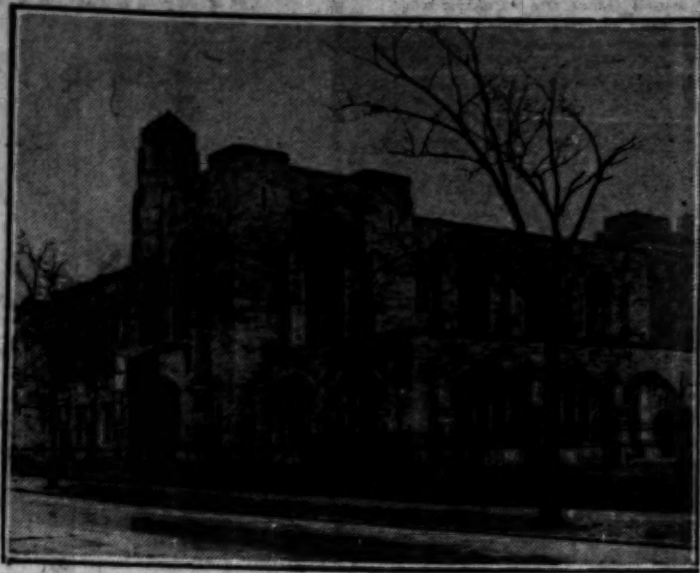

"The strength we insist upon clearly would not constitute a menace to any power and shows no idea of offense. The Japanese delegation sincerely hopes and is confident the conference will be a success."

Because of the natural topography of the island kingdom, it was pointed out by M. Satto, secretary of the delegation, that the Japanese are of great importance to Japan for defensive purposes. Therefore, the group will advocate retention of the present strength of the Japanese submarine power.

Does Any Competition. "That does not mean," he added, "that we intended to compete with other Great Britain or the United States in a submarine building program, should either of those nations decide to increase their present resources. All we ask is the right to keep our present submarine fleet for defense, regardless of what other nations do."

A Kinross, Japanese consul in Chicago, greeted the group as it arrived from the west coast, and accompanied them to the hotel.

THINK TEACHER WAS SLAIN ON SUNDAY MORNING

Later Hour Now Fixed for Rockford Tragedy.

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Investigation of the murder of Miss Cordelia Gummshelmer, high school teacher who was clubbed to death in her apartment a week ago, developed no new clue today, according to State's Attorney William D. Knight.

Every lead suggesting a solution of the mysterious slaying has been followed without tangible result except for the establishing of alibis by persons whose letters were found in her room or were mentioned in her correspondence.

Two fellow teachers, whose names have not been revealed, were in Miss Gummshelmer's room as late as 1:30 on the Sunday morning of the tragedy. When they left at that hour, one of them informed Police Captain Reed, the teacher was preparing to take a bath, heretofore it had been thought that the murdered woman was last seen alive at 11 o'clock Saturday night. It now is believed that the crime was committed about 4 or 5 o'clock Sunday morning.

DENTISTS TO SEE BOY, 8, WITH HIS 3D SET OF TEETH

Arthur Wilke, 8 years old, 2728 North Mulligan Avenue, will be one of the most interesting exhibits at the clinic of the Chicago Dental Society at its annual convention in the Stevens hotel next month, when he appears with his third set of teeth. Dr. Bernard G. Rux, 5720 Huron Street, who is attending the boy, said his case is one of the most unusual in dental history.

Arthur appeared at Dr. Rux's office at 6011 Diversey Avenue several days ago complaining of a severe toothache, but an examination showed that the teeth, his second set, were all in excellent condition. Dr. Rux made X-ray photographs and discovered that a third set of front teeth has already developed in the boy's jaw bone and is pushing the second set out.

The boy lost his first set of teeth at the age of 5½ years and the second set appeared when he was 6, the average age at which the second teeth develop. The second set will be pulled to permit the third to grow out, Dr. Rux said. Dr. Rux believes the condition is hereditary, as an uncle of Arthur's mother showed a similar condition.

NATION ENJOYS LONG PERIOD OF BRISK BUSINESS

Federal Report Points to Wide Prosperity.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—(Special.)—Business, commercial and industrial enterprises, almost without exception, enjoyed one of the most profitable years since the war during the twelve months period ending June 30 as indicated by Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont in his annual report issued today.

The volume of industrial production was the largest on record, the report stated, while at the same time the cost of living did not increase. Market progress was shown in the realm of transportation, banking and finance and foreign trade and a steady improvement was manifest in the efficiency of all branches of business and industry.

Because it covered the fiscal rather than the calendar year, Secretary Lamont's report, of course, did not reflect whatever effect the recent stock market crash had on the business world. It did, however, prove that up to near the time of the crash business was on a high level of prosperity and it sustained the view that what now is needed is not relief from a depression but the continuation of prosperity without a letup.

Hoover Optimistic.
President Hoover at his business conferences repeatedly stressed the point that the trend of business is good and took the stand that confidence in the future will maintain its momentum.

"The output of American industry during the fiscal year was the highest ever attained," the Lamont report declared. "Although business was not characterized by the feverish activity in the war period and the immediately succeeding boom, the actual production of commodities and services was larger."

"The most comprehensive measure of the volume of industrial production is the general index of output of manufactured commodities compiled by the federal reserve board. This index for the fiscal year just closed stood at 117 as compared with the average for the three years 1923-1925 taken as 100. It was 9 points higher than the previous peak attained in 1927."

Freight Volume Heavy.
Aggregate mineral production and the volume of freight transported, the value of department store, 5 and 10 cent store, mail order and wholesale sales were exceptionally large during the year, according to the report. The only general indicators of business activity which stood at a lower level in 1928-1929 than in the preceding fiscal year were the floor space of building contracts and the output of forest products which is largely dependent on construction activity.

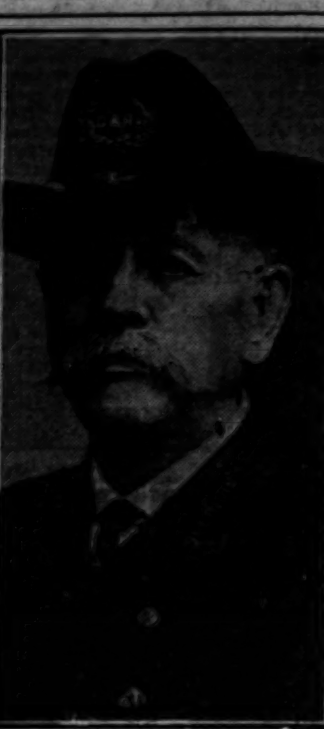

Although the unemployment problem has been serious since 1929, the report explained, the downward movement has been checked during the last three or four years and "the number of factory workers employed during the fiscal year was appreciably greater than during the preceding fiscal year."

Meanwhile, according to Mr. Lamont, the cost of living has remained almost unchanged.
Price Levels Maintained.
"The high activity of business in the past fiscal year was accompanied by no general upward trend of prices," he said. "The steadiness of price levels, which has been characteristic now of a very considerable period of time, continued. Wholesale prices characterized both wholesale and retail prices during the year."

The Lamont report sustained its conclusions as to the general prosperity of business during the fiscal year in exhaustive analyses of several of the major phases of activity, summarized as follows:
Agriculture—"There was some improvement in the agricultural situation during the year, viewing the industry as a whole. The gross income from farm products totaled $13,217,000,000, the largest, except for 1923-24, since 1920-21."

Construction—"Building construction, considered as a whole, is one of the few branches of business which was less active in 1928-29 than the year before. The decline was slight, amounting to 3 or 4 per cent."

G. A. R. Leader Dies

CAPT. JOHN B. INMAN.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 15.—(Special.)—Capt. John B. Inman, 61 years old, past grand commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, died at his home here today following an illness of several months. He was custodian of the state memorial hall for twenty-five years. He was manager of the Springfield office of the Western Union Telegram company.

Captain Inman served in the civil war. He held a commission in the Spanish-American war, heading the Illinois signal corps. He was elected commander of the Illinois division of the Grand Army in 1899 and later became the national head of the organization.

A notable instance of Captain Inman's administration of the National Grand Army was his meeting with the commander of the confederate veterans' organization at the grave of Abraham Lincoln a few years ago.

EX-KAISER FELT SCORN FOR SLAVS, ARCHIVES SHOW

VIENNA, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Experts from a further batch of official pre-war documents made public today showed that former Kaiser Wilhelm held the Slavic states of the Balkans in considerable contempt.
"Serbia must be attracted to us chiefly through money," he was represented as saying to Count Berchtold, foreign minister of Austria, in one of their conversations on the Balkan situation.

"From the king down they can be bought with gold."

In these conversations the former Kaiser desired that efforts should be directed toward preventing agreements between Bulgaria and Serbia, which he considered would badly affect the interest of the German and Austrian empires. He also told Berchtold:

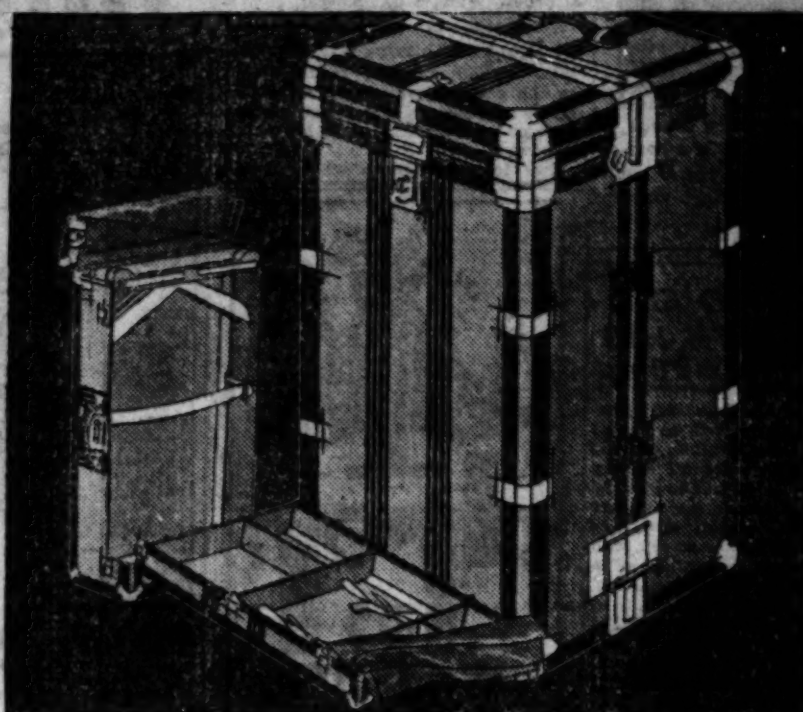

"War between the east and west is inevitable. The Slavs were not born to rule but to serve, and they must be made to comprehend this. If they believe their salvation will come from Belgrade, that belief must be dispelled. When Prince Josip [Austrian emperor] requests something from Serbia that government must agree to it or Belgrade will be bombarded and occupied until the desires of the emperor are fulfilled."

Two Escape from State Prison in North Dakota

Bismarck, N. D., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Two men escaped from the state penitentiary here early today and tonight had not been apprehended. They are Ed Canfield, 35, sentenced to a 15 months term from Deach for interfering with an officer and George Arnett, 34, sentenced to three years from Minot for grand larceny.

"A MONUMENT to the financial greatness of Chicago," this banking institution has been called.

Yet, today, as its doors swing open for the first time to our friends, we prefer to think of this great bank as a monument to an ideal.

For its opening marks the union of two of Chicago's oldest banks. Rich in resources — in banking experience — in facilities — but greater than all of these — rich in friendships that have survived the years.

And so today — in the spirit of friendliness that has characterized our relationships of the past — we invite the patrons of The Foreman National Bank and The Foreman Trust And Savings Bank and the State Bank of Chicago to join with us in the occasion of the opening of our new banking home. ## COUNTY C. O. P. MERGER DRAWS FIRE OF DENEEN

Brundage, Cermak Also Give Out Statements.

Senator Charles S. Deneen yesterday attacked the recent merger of Republican factions which includes Edward J. Brundage, former attorney general. The attitude of the new organization is regarded as anti-Deneen, although Mr. Brundage, who also made public a statement yesterday, stated that the United States senatorship nomination of next April is not involved in the movement to cleanse Cook county politics.

Mr. Deneen discussed bipartisanship, which Brundage declared was to be tolerated no more. At the same time Anton J. Cermak, Democratic county chairman, explained that from his point of view the Brundage announcement was correct, but only inasmuch as Democrats would enter no agreement with "discredited political bosses." Senator Deneen also asked the public to withhold judgment on this country's entry into the world court until President Hoover's message regarding it is received.

Deneen Attacks Merger.
The newly effected combination of Republican leaders, led by Charles V. Barrett, Bernard W. Snow, and Mr. Brundage, drew out the opinion of Senator Deneen that it consisted merely of an organization of men elected in a primary unopposed for fraud, violence, and crime. The Cermak opinion was that the combination amounts to nothing because it is built only on spoils and patronage.

The Deneen statement came at a time when it appeared that his political enemies were organizing solidly against him and his forces were facing a rupture. This was because the expected support of Deneen by Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom and by Fred Laidin, one time political boss of Cook county and Illinois, was threatened because Carlstrom served notice he would not tolerate an association with Laidin.

Senator Makes Statement.
Senator Deneen's statement touched only on Cook county Republicans; however, it was as follows:
"The Republican county committee has nothing to do during the remainder of its life. Its sole power under the law is to act as a convention to nominate judges of our Superior and Circuit courts. It elected Homer Galpin as its chairman. Messrs. Snow, Barrett, Brundage, Cervo, Wallace, and their associates supported Mr. Galpin. Our friends opposed his election.

"Mr. Galpin has remained out of the jurisdiction of the courts of Cook county for a year or more to avoid testifying as to the sources of the funds which he collected for the primaries of 1928 and to reveal the allies and supporters of himself and his associates on the committee and their activities during a campaign that was unparalleled in Cook county for fraud and violence and crime.

"Elected by Democratic Votes."
"The present Republican committee-men were elected in the primaries of 1928 and a large number of them were elected through the means mentioned above and most of them were elected by Democratic votes."

"Mr. Snow says that he and his friends are against bipartisanship. For eight years preventing the last judicial election there had been but one party ticket in the election of the judges of our Circuit and Superior courts in Cook county through an alliance of Mr. Brennan for the Democrats and Messrs. Galpin, Barrett, Brundage, Cervo and their associates for the Republicans.

"In the last judicial campaign it will be remembered that Mr. Snow and Mr. Barrett and their friends were negotiating with Anton Cermak, the Democratic leader, for a bipartisan ticket and that Mr. Cermak refused to agree to such a ticket unless all groups in the Republican party and Democratic party were united in its support.

"Our group refused so to do unless the candidates should receive the approval of our local bar association. Messrs. Snow, Barrett and Brundage refused to join with our group in the above program. The Galpin-Snow faction was so weak that it could induce only five lawyers to become candidates on a ticket where twenty-two judges were to be elected. Even Mr. Brundage avoided the Galpin-Snow ticket and organized a People's ticket against coalition and named twelve candidates.

"It seems that Mr. Snow cannot forgive our friends for not supporting the five candidates of the Galpin-Snow-Barrett ticket, although he granted complete abolition to Mr. Brundage and his People's ticket against coalition and all their works.

"I observe, too, that Mr. Barrett is against the world court to avoid entangling alliances, and that Mr.

Snow is against the courts of Cook county to avoid discrediting local political and other alliances.

"If the former should prove to be as bad as the latter I am sure no thoughtful citizen would wish to have our country enter the world court."

Mr. Brundage's bid for an opportunity for the new leadership to show its character was issued because he did not, as expected, attend the Saturday reorganization meeting of the Republican committee.

"I have been a discredited Republican because I believed that the party, through its management, had lost public confidence," the Brundage statement read. "I have insisted upon a change in party management. This now has been brought about by the retirement of the former chairman and the complete reorganization of the committee."

"I am also assured that the nominations for county offices will be upon the recommendation of a representative committee of Republican citizens and that no man will be placed upon the ticket who does not pass the scrutiny of this committee of citizens."

"I am again assured there will be determined opposition to bipartisan alliances of all kinds and that the Republican party will function as a party and assume party responsibility for the conduct of public officers elected on the Republican ticket.

"Furthermore, the citizens' committee will be asked to take cognizance of the demand for a business administration of the county board and the sanitary district and give consideration to the citizens who have been working toward this end. This citizens' committee, I understand, is to have powers broad enough to consider the claims of all Republican factions providing the character of the nominees submitted for consideration is of the kind that meets with their approval.

"The movement is broad enough to take care of all the elements, and it is not extending beyond the county government. The United States senatorship is not involved. The citizens' committee will be asked solely to give due consideration to a better government for Cook county under Republican auspices."

Cermak's contribution to the Republican debate was snappy.

"It is interesting to note," he said, "that the coterie of discredited political bosses who are now engaged in reshuffling that extremely dirty deck known as the Cook County Republican organization can take a broad hint. After having been kicked down the stairs last fall they now finally decide that they are unwelcome visitors and announce that they are refusing an invitation which was never given."

"The same bosses—Snow, Barrett, and Wallace, speaking for Brundage—who yesterday proclaimed so vigorously against bipartisanship, last fall sought as eagerly to perpetuate it in a bipartisan judicial ticket."

"The crowning hypocrisy of all is that while they pretend to wash their hands of their responsibility for the notoriously unpopular leaders, they propose to use the power of these same leaders to build up their badly damaged machine. Without the spoils and patronage of the city hall, their organization amounts to nothing, for it is built only on spoils and patronage."

DEMOCRATS OF ALABAMA PASS ON HEFLIN TODAY

State Committee to Discuss Smith "Bolters."

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 15.—(Special.)—A committee of fifty men, members of the state Democratic executive committee, will decide tomorrow whether or not Senator J. Thomas Hefflin can continue to be a Democrat. The committee, which will meet here at noon, will especially consider action against "bolters," persons who failed to support the candidacy of Alfred E. Smith in last year's election. "Bitter foe of Catholicism, booze and other topics he termed 'menaces,'" Hefflin stumped the state against Smith. Since the committee action threatened, Hefflin has made repeated pleas for harmony in the party.

May Run as Independent. If Alabama's senator is expelled from his party, it is generally believed throughout the state that he will run as an independent with Eugene Locke, another "bitter-crest" who faces being read out of the party at the same time. Locke, a Birmingham attorney, is an announced candidate for governor.

Whatever action the committee takes tomorrow, it will be guided somewhat by a rule that all candidates must have supported the party's nominees at the most recent primary. Chairman Fredrick E. Baskin.

E. W. Pettus of Selma, Ala., chairman of the executive committee, in a statement here last night said he believed that the body would bar the bolters. Democratic exclusionist leaders have previously predicted such action and claim to have assembled thirty-one of the total fifty votes to their cause.

Of the remainder of the committee, they said, six members are "doubtful" and the rest are in favor of total harmony. The primary election in Alabama will be held on Aug. 12. The executive committee is composed of five members from each of the ten congressional districts.

Husband Stabbed; Police Hold Wife and Roomer

Constantine Janoto, 27 years old, 1100 W. 23d street, was in the county hospital last night with five knife wounds in his chest and abdomen, while his wife, Jennie, 37 years old, and Benjamin Cier, 50 years old, a roomer at his home, were being held at the Marquette police station. Janoto is not expected to survive his wounds. The police found him unconscious when they went to his home in response to a call from neighbors who said a fight was going on.

including his brother, Glauco, who was radio operator. They used a plane with two motors. After having been unsupported for several days their plane was found wrecked in Morocco. A week later they arrived safely at Cape Jubi under escort of a Moorish caravan, which demand $4,250 before permitting the aviators to join their friends.

Maj. Larre-Borge attributed the failure of this flight to stoppage in the oil pump. He returned to Uruguay, where subscriptions were at once opened for a new plane. Lieut. Challes is a distinguished French aviator, who has long been interested in setting new distance records. In January, 1924, he made an 80 hour flight from Paris to Teheran, Persia, and return. He claimed a world nonstop record by a flight in September, 1924, to Bender Abbas, Persia. The next year, he flew to Saigon, Indo-China, and has made several other distance flights.

Two More Prepare to Hop.

LONDON, Dec. 14 (Monday).—Squadron Leader A. G. Jones Williams and Lieut. N. H. Jenkins early today were preparing at the Cranwell air-drome, Lincolnshire, to start in their Fairey monoplane on a nonstop flight to South Africa, a distance of 8,000 miles. Should they reach Cape Town they would capture for Great Britain the world's longest distance record, now held by France at 4,812 miles. The route chosen is across France, striking the African coast near Tunis, passing over the Sahara desert toward Nigeria, thence parallel with the west African coast but inland. These pilots recently used the same machine on a nonstop flight to India in 48 hours.

"MURDER" TRIAL OF 5 ARKANSAS MEN TO START

Mountain View, Ark., Dec. 15.—(Special.)—Appearance of a woman "mystery witness" for the state and promises of startling disclosures by both prosecution and defense had this little mountain village at a high pitch of excitement tonight on the eve of the opening of the trial of five men charged with murdering Connie Franklin. The woman, whose name was not divulged but who was said by Sheriff Sam Johnson to have known an M. Franklin in the state insane asylum in 1924, today viewed the man who says he is the Connie Franklin he believed murdered, and neither apparently recognized the other. The man who asserts he is Connie Franklin and who was brought back here by the defense to deny any murder was committed in the St. James Hill community last March 5, remained today with relatives of the accused men.

COSTE HOPS OFF TO BEAT HIS OWN DISTANCE RECORD

AVIGNON, France, Dec. 14.—(Special.)—Dieudonne Coste, leading pilot of France, who returned only recently from the orient after setting a new world distance mark for a flight in one direction, today took to the air to seek a similar record over measured course. He lifted his world famed plane Question Mark from the Istres field at Marseilles at 8:50 a. m. He was accompanied by Pilot Codes of the regular Paris-London air line. They carried fuel sufficient for 23 hours. In the first ten hours of their flight they had covered nearly 1,100 miles between Avignon and Arbonne. With his speed increasing as the fuel and weight of the plane lightened, Coste was confident he would cover about 5,700 miles before landing tomorrow.

Dixie Sheriff Eludes Mob with Negro Slayer Suspect

The Negro was arrested in his cabin on White's farm after bloodhounds had led a posse of a thousand men to his home and stood outside the door saying: "He was stolen away from the Negro and taken to a jail, the location of which was not announced."

AGED DICTATOR OF VENEZUELA QUILTS BUT STILL RULES

Shows Signs of Leniency as Time Goes On.

BY HARWOOD HULL.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 15.—Gen. Juan Vicente Gómez, for twenty years president and dictator of Venezuela, who retired from the presidency last April to become commanding general of the army, is becoming more liberal with advancing years, according to persons arriving here from Venezuela.

His retirement from the presidency was actual, but his retention of authority was provided for by a change in the constitution which provides that the president may act only with the approval of the commanding general.

The last incident indicating that the general is not becoming vindictive with age is his release of 200 former University of Caracas students after a year and a half imprisonment.

Their return to Caracas was the occasion for a popular demonstration. Other prisoners were released at the same time. The feeling against Gen. Gómez in many circles in Caracas was bitter during the confinement of these students and, although there is almost a holiday spirit prevailing now that they are freed, their experiences will not be forgotten and many will never forgive the former president.

Rules from "Retirement."

Gen. Gómez remains almost constantly at his favorite estate at Maracay. He has not visited Caracas since the student uprising. An Andean from the Andes—and with no love for the Caraqueños to begin with, Gen. Gómez has not entered the capital since the late unpleasantness. Those who want to see him go to Maracay. And although his rank of commanding general of the army seems less important than that carried with the title of president, there is no doubt in any Venezuelan mind that Juan Vicente is still the head of the government. He himself named Chief Justice Pérez as candidate to succeed him as president.

MORE HOSPITALS FOR DISABLED VETERANS URGED

Legion's Commander Tells of Overcrowding.

Bloomington, Ill., Dec. 15.—(AP)—An appeal for aid in the American Legion's campaign for the proper hospitalization of 5,543 mentally ill veterans of the world war was voiced by O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander, in an address before the annual conference of Illinois American Legion post adjutants and commanders here today.

Describing the veterans' hospitals as the best equipped in America but too few to accommodate the mentally disabled ex-service men, the national commander urged a popular demand upon congress for the passage during the December session of a bill providing suitable hospital facilities.

Mr. Bodenhamer said in part: "Much to Be Done. Today the veterans of the world war are the beneficiaries of the most liberal government, but much is left to be done in the establishment of additional hospitals. Poor farms, jails and penitentiaries are housing some of the ex-service men. Surely, no greater crime against American patriotism can be perpetrated than for the American people, through its congress, to delay longer in supplying hospital facilities necessary to care for the ever growing list of our disabled.

"Congress has already delayed too long. The Legion is now urging immediate passage of a bill to give prompt relief to more than 5,500 veterans who are suffering from lack of care caused by shortage of government hospitals.

Herded in Like Cattle.

"According to the acting medical director of the United States Veterans' bureau, the total number of nervous and mentally disabled veterans in all hospitals in January, 1929, was 15,391. Of these 5,543 are now being cared for in overcrowded, under-nourished city, county and state institutions. They are not in government hospitals where they have a right to be under existing laws. These men are herded together like cattle and crowded into hallways and corridors."

U. S. IS ACCUSED OF CRUELTY TO BRITISH CITIZENS

"Jailed and Degraded for Nothing," Is Charge.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
LONDON, Dec. 15.—"British Degraded in United States Jails" was the banner headline today on the front page of the Sunday Chronicle. The story under this headline told how "British men and women were intimidated, bullied, and insulted by brutal United States jailers and imprisoned with the scum of the underworld when sentenced to deportation." The article is couched in a tone of burning indignation and scores the American system of handling the deportation of aliens, many of whom, the article says, are guilty only of overstaying their time "and have committed no crime except the illoy of going to the United States."

Playwright Makes Charge.
Gerald Crichton, actor and playwright, who just returned from New York, is the authority for the story. While in America he acted as adviser to British immigrants on behalf of the British Legion, which accounted for his contact with the American immigration authorities. Geoffrey Fisher, British vice consul in Los Angeles, declares that more than 500 British subjects are at present detained pending deportation under the conditions of which Mr. Crichton complains.

Mr. Crichton alleges that Britons who have overstayed their leave or have committed minor breaches of regulations governing aliens are hauled to prison without warning or without time to communicate with friends or their consul and are fingerprinted, photographed, and compelled to join identification parades with the basest type of criminals, and are held incommunicado 24 hours. Then, he says, they spend two or three weeks in jail pending acceptance of their bond of $5,000, providing they are able to raise that amount.

Calls Officials Insulting.
After a trial before immigration officials, he continues, they are sentenced to be deported to their place of birth and again are held in jail and herded with ordinary criminals for an average period of three to six months. Mr. Crichton complains bitterly of the insulting conduct of officials throughout the process.

Among the many cases cited is that of Herbert Upjohn, a young English journalist employed on a Vancouver paper, who visited the United States on a six months' permit and overstayed his time in Los Angeles, where he wrote for a local journal.

One day, the article says, four heavily armed officers entered his hotel room and asked for his passport. When he went to a drawer to get it one of them said:

"That's all right, Limey. I have seen that trick before."

Minor of War Record.

Upjohn, the article says, was quickly handcuffed and taken to jail, where he protested and, unfortunately, made reference that consideration might be shown a former war comrade. According to Upjohn, Inspector Carr, who is described as "one of those gaunt relics of America's penal days," replied:

"So you are one of those guys who think they won the war. You're gonna' learn there is a place on the map called the United States, and before you're through with this country you're gonna' learn also that British Empire talk is as stale as a lousy cheese. We make rules for Chinamen—the same rule goes for a Britisher." Upjohn was sent to the Los Angeles county jail, finger printed, photographed, and put in a cage called a "tank" along with Negroes, Mexicans, down and out, and sweepings of the underworld founded up because a policeman was murdered the night before," Mr. Crichton says. "With ten of this group he was backed against a white wall, blinking into powerful lights, while detectives participating in the identification parade, invisible behind the glare, asked questions."

Deported to China.

After the parade, it is charged, Upjohn was placed in a cell in a part of the jail where there were 48 other prisoners. The following morning he was sentenced to be deported to the country of his birth. After months in the Los Angeles jail, which Upjohn described as horribly overcrowded with undernourished prisoners, who were continually planning mutiny and were cuffed out, he was taken to prison, where he discovered that instead of returning him home to Vancouver, the government was deporting him to the place of his birth, which happened to be China.

His protests were unavailing and his inquiry about his baggage—a wardrobe trunk, six suit cases, a portable typewriter, and a phonograph—were answered with a statement that they were put aboard the boat, which later proved untrue. Handcuffed to 40 Chinese, the story says, Upjohn was shipped off to China, from where he had to make his own way home.

Other Cases Cited.

Other cases reported are those of a former major of the famous British Greys regiment, who became mixed up in the Mexican troubles and fled from that country to California, where he was arrested and spent four months awaiting deportation; a Bond street tailor, who went to the United States for a visit, and later decided to set up shop. His illegal entry was discovered seven years later, when he became mixed up in an auto accident. Both he and his wife were arrested, bond was refused, and they were incarcerated for three months before being deported, while his shop was sold at a loss.

Several cases of film actors in Hollywood are cited; also that of a seaman who had remained longer than permitted; two ordinary tourists who had overstayed their time a few days and were held in jail for months for deportation instead of being allowed to return home themselves.

Mr. Crichton says he knows of a case where a husband and wife were not allowed to see each other for more than three months.

He tells of another where a British film actor married an American citizen and was locked up while his wife was en route, and then was sent away, while she remained in the country.

EUROPE TO SEND
ART TREASURES
FOR 1933 FAIR

Committee Hears Pledge of Co-operation.

AT JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT
A hundred notable Chicagoans were here today to hear the fine arts and have the money they will with them set down to the fair in the Casino in Delaware place yesterday afternoon.

Along with gorgeous assurances that European governments are willing to do for our impending fair, the committee acquired a lively collection of exhibits that the 1933 show will have to be more than a rambling state fair if it is to tell the world anything new or exhilarating.

Plan Another Meeting.
This thought sank so deep that the present promptly decided to hold another school session at which the fine arts and how to make a successful display of them in '33 will be the main theme. The meeting will be held within a fortnight. Its special purpose is to mobilize the 13,000 members of the art institute in the cause of the fair.

That the possibilities are immense was agreed yesterday and that the committee's support will be cordial was made plain.

You can have for Chicago's fair many of the treasures in this room. You can find space for it, said one of the art directors of the current exposition in Barcelona to Chicago on its way to the Spanish scene.

With that his comprehensive grasp of the art institute in the cause of the fair, which have been insured the sum of $100,000,000.

Belgium Promises Co-operation.
Belgium, with two of the world's most famous art capitals within its borders, has promised the emissaries of the fair before given a foreign exposition.

Through Ambassador Howard, Great Britain has given specific pledges and significant.

The bringer of these glad tidings was Dr. Allen D. Albert, assistant trumpet and drum man to President Roosevelt, who is in charge of the fair's centennial celebration, that being the latest cumbersome inscription of the projectors in selecting names for the festivities of 1933.

Art Leaders Attend.
Among Dr. Albert's hearers were Chauncey McCormick, chairman of the fine arts exhibits for the Chicago fair, Dr. William Allen Pusey, R. H. Hayes, Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Robert B. Harsh, director of the institute; Mrs. Bryan Lathrop, Art Aldis, Mr. and Mrs. John Winthrop, Jr., George W. Dixon, J. Frederick Upham, Mrs. Jacob B. Arthur Meeker, Max Epstein, J. McElroy Fairbank, and D. F. Kelly. From his recent survey of the fine arts expositions current in Europe Dr. Albert was able to assure his pupils the fine arts are the strongest lure for expositions, three and a half to five times more people entering the art pavilions than any of the other buildings.

Would Increase Attendance.
Dr. Albert felt that recent sober dimensions in exposition history should inspire the Chicago promoters the most generous emphasis should be placed upon the development of great display of the fine arts in such a display would, obviously, only be ennobling but also would a tremendous factor in insuring attendance. "An exposition," added, "may deserve success, but can achieve success only in the light of attendance."

EUROPE TO SEND ART TREASURES FOR 1933 FAIR

Committee Hears Pledge of Co-operation.

JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.
A number of notable Chicagoans who have the fine arts and have the money to put them at their disposal, are at the time of the Chicago fair in Delaware place yesterday afternoon.

Along with gorgeous assurances of European governments are willing to do for our impending fair, the committee acquired a lively conviction that the 1933 show will be more than a rambling state fair. It is to tell the world anything is possible.

Plan Another Meeting.
The thought sank so deep that the committee promptly decided to hold another school session at which the fine arts and how to make an artistic display of them in '33 will be discussed. The meeting will be held in a fortnight. Its special purpose is to mobilize the 19,000 members of the Art Institute in the cause of the fair.

That the possibilities are immense was agreed yesterday and that Europe's support will be cordial seems likely.

You can have for Chicago's fair many of the treasures in this room, said one of the current expositions in Barcelona to Chicago emissaries lately on the Spanish scene.

With that his comprehensive gesture included exhibits of Spanish masterpieces from the 14th to the 17th century which have been insured in the sum of $100,000,000.

Belgium Promises Cooperation.
Belgium, with two of the world's famous art capitals within its borders, has promised the emissaries such cooperation as Belgium has before given a foreign exposition.

Through Ambassador Claudel, Belgium has promised to send to Chicago, among other treasures of the world, its supreme American masterpiece, Whistler's portrait of his mother.

Through Ambassador Howard, Great Britain has given specific pledges of assistance.

The binger of these glad tidings was Dr. Allen D. Albert, assistant trustee and drum man to President James D. Ives of the "Chicago World's Fair Centennial celebration," that title being the latest cumbersome inspiration of the projectors in selecting a name for the festivities of 1933.

Art Leaders Attend.
Among Dr. Albert's hearers were Cassius McCormick, chairman of the art exhibits for the Chicago fair; Dr. William Allen Pusey, Rufus W. Ives, Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Robert B. Harbo, director of the Art Institute; Mrs. Bryan Lathrop, Arthur Little, Mr. and Mrs. John Winter, William Jr., George W. Dixon, Mrs. Frederick Upham, Mrs. Jacob Barr, Arthur Mosher, Max Epstein, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, and D. F. Kelly.

From his recent survey of the four expositions current in Europe, Dr. Albert was able to assure his pupils that the fine arts are the strongest lure of expositions, three and a half to five times more people entering the fine arts pavilions than any of the other buildings.

Would Increase Attendance.
Dr. Albert felt that recent sobering statistics in exposition history should convince the Chicago promoters that the most generous emphasis should be placed upon the development of a great display of the fine arts in 1933. Such a display would, obviously, not only be enabling but also would be a tremendous factor in insuring large attendance. "An exposition," he said, "may deserve success, but it is not a success only in the terms of attendance."

When the daughter of an old family went to live beyond the sea

A shower of blossoms, the wave of a white-gloved hand, and a slim young bride was off for her new foreign home.

Her father had placed valuable Chicago property in trust for her at The Northern Trust Company.

Men desired this property. They offered to buy it at what seemed to be a surprisingly liberal price. The proceeds could easily have been converted into tax-exempt securities, in order to avoid pyramiding an American tax upon the heavy European taxes placed on her income.

Had the trustees then sold, the daughter would have been grateful for an immediate increase in income, the world would have called it an excellent business transaction.

But the men of The Northern Trust Company had faith in the worth of the property which the father had acquired during his lifetime, so they decided to wait.

In a very few years, marked changes took place. Chicago real estate rose greatly in value.

Then and then only did The Northern Trust officers feel that the father's vision had been realized. They sold the property for twice the amount of the original offer!

What are your plans for your estate?

DAVIS PUTS OVER PHILIPPINE LAWS BY PSYCHOLOGY

Does No Nagging; Makes No Bargains.

BY FORD WILKINS.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
MANILA, Dec. 15.—The eighth Philippine legislature recently closed its doors here, during which the administration of Gov. Dwight F. Davis was passing its first significant test. Gov. Davis passed the test better than the legislature did. Even so, that body got more work done than it has in many recent sessions, and this in spite of the fact that independence agitation in Washington turned everything topsy turvy and nearly upset the legislative apparatus.

Davis Shown as Psychologist.
The whole affair has revealed Gov. Davis as a practical psychologist. In his address to the legislature he told lawmakers he had no definite legislative program to offer. He outlined things he thought were the most important, then turned the work over to them. He did no nagging and no political bargaining.

In a nutshell, he got cooperation without making a catchword out of it. The legislature passed about 150 bills and concurrent resolutions subject to executive veto. The number in itself is something of a record. Gov. Davis drafted a budget allowing government expenditures totaling more than $40,000,000. The house, usually the first to raise it, actually lowered it by about $500,000. The senate raised it slightly and on the closing night the two houses met in caucus and passed it at approximately the figure recommended by Gov. Davis.

Lesson to U. S. Congress.
"I really think," said Gov. Davis, "that this legislature could give lessons to congress in budget making." A number of important and constructive measures were passed. A bill regulating and defining some of the powers of the bureau of banking was one. Another one is the tourist bill, appropriating $50,000 out of the insular treasury to promote the tourist business in the Philippines. This was one of the governor's pet bills.

FIRST BOAT SAILS IN NEW CHANNEL OF CHICAGO RIVER

The first vessel yesterday steamed through the newly straightened stretch of the Chicago river reaching from Polk to 18th streets. The boat was the freighter McFarland, commanded by Capt. Forrest Maloney. As a formal commemoration of completion of the straightening, which cost $9,000,000, a string of boats will parade through the new channel on next Thursday. The flotilla will be led by the passenger steamer Alabama and the naval reserve craft Wilmetta, amid the flying of banners and the music of bands.

On Thursday night the event will be further celebrated by a banquet in the Palmer house. Lorin D. Gayton, city engineer, will be toastmaster, and Congressman Morton D. Hull of Peoria and Frank E. Reid of Aurora and others will speak. The new channel will be opened to regular traffic today.

HAITIANS DESIRE U. S. TO SUPERVISE ELECTION IN 1930

Remind Hoover of 1915 Pledge of Aid.
BY WILLIAM LAWSON.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Dec. 15.—A petition, signed by the presidents of seven leading Haitian political organizations, asking United States supervision of the presidential elections here in April, 1930, was dispatched to President Hoover today by air mail. The petition, after calling attention to the solemn promises of the United States government that the intervention in 1915 was only to aid the Haitian people, asserts that the Borno administration, which the signers charge with virtually enslaving the peasantry, would be outvoted by more than 200,000 votes under a supervised election. They predict that without such supervision by the United States, Haiti will continue "in its present state of incipient revolution."

"Fair Election Impossible."
An impartial election in April, the petitioners charge, is impossible under the prevailing French electoral system, which leaves the choice of a president within the power of a committee of 21. This committee, it is alleged, has always been bought by the administration.

The signers of the petition were Fernand Thibout of the Patriotic Union; Seymour Trudel of the National Constitutional League; Antonio Vieux Jr., of the Patriotic League; J. P. Melie of the League of Rights and Citizenship; L. C. Harrison of the Public Instruction association; D. Bellegarde of the Haitian Association of the League of Nations; and E. M. Remy of the Haitian League of Nations.

Hope to Get Maroons Out.

The petition is generally interpreted as the climax of the campaign by the anti-Borno and anti-American occupation factions, both in Haiti and in the United States to stir up a commotion in congress about the very sort of an investigation proposed by President Hoover. The hope is to effect the withdrawal of American marines before the expiration of the treaty in 1934, under which the United States took over the safeguarding of the revolution torn little country until it can right itself.

Marital law continues here and the hopes that it would be lifted in a day or two were blasted by reports of demonstrations by radicals in New York. These reports encouraged the agitators to new extremes, with the result that the martial law is being kept tighter. Efforts by the American legion officials to keep the reports of sympathetic outbreaks in the United States quiet failed, and almost as soon as the news was received leaders of the opposition to the American occupation were carrying the word through the country.

Mary McCormick Wishes Pola and Prince Happiness

Mary McCormick, Chicago Civic opera star, isn't grieving over Pola Negri's decision to keep Prince Serge Medvini, who was reported engaged to her, but is merely waiting for the movie star's divorce to marry the opera singer. That was Miss McCormick's story yesterday when she laughingly declared that she wishes Miss Negri and the prince happiness. "As for loving him—he is a nice man," she said, declining to retract her ecstatic statements of a few weeks ago.

DIRECT ELECTION OF SENATORS TO BE HIT IN HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—(AP)—A return to the method of having United States senators elected by state legislatures instead of by direct vote of the people will be sought in a resolution prepared for introduction tomorrow by Representative Underhill (Rep., Mass.).

"The change ought to be welcome by the senate because of its recent troubled experience," the Bay state member said. "The time now is opportune, and the proposal should relieve the senate of trouble."

A constitutional amendment would be necessary to carry out Underhill's plan.

The Massachusetts member believes it would create greater party responsibility and "give statesmanship and proven ability an equal chance with wealth and demagoguery."

WEALTHY VISITOR IS HEART VICTIM IN RENTED ROOM

Augustus Wettengel, 70 years old, a wealthy business man of Rochester, N. Y., and a former Chicagoan, dropped dead yesterday afternoon of heart disease in a room which he had rented a short time before at 4341 Drexel boulevard. Wettengel's purpose in renting the room was a mystery. Mrs. Robert Turner, the landlady, said Wettengel had no baggage, but he told her he would get it from the Hotel Sherman, where he registered Saturday night.

Eugene J. Coleman, 3111 Main street, whose name was found in Wettengel's pocket, identified the body and said the man was president of the Wettengel corporation of Rochester, a canning company. He was formerly connected with the Curtis Products company. He is survived by his widow, a son, Everett, and one daughter.

Are YOU Getting YOUR MONEY'S WORTH In Entertainment ?

The American people pay more generously for entertainment than any nation on earth. Their generosity has enriched the motion picture industry.

Spoken dialog has come to replace the subtitle of the silent picture. Tagging along with the talkies comes Mechanical Music—an economy.

Real Music is being ordered out of many theatres in favor of this new comer, who never dared a theatrical appearance until he gained the protection of the Talking Picture's novelty and the magic word "Synchronized." Now synchronization with a picture does not give Mechanical Music the quality of Real Music.

Banishment of Living Music represents a loss for the theatre patron. Is this loss balanced by the substitution of Mechanical Music?

A very great many theatre-goers will answer:

"NO!"

Then why should the aforementioned American people, who pay so generously for entertainment, be required to take less for their money than they were wont to get?

OFFICIALS USING FOREIGN SHIPS

BY BRITTEN Law Winked At
and Urges Expose.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—(Special.)—American officials who use foreign ships in their travels abroad have been the target of a resolution which Representative Fred A. Britten (Rep., Ill.) introduced today that he will introduce to the house tomorrow. Mr. Britten is chairman of the house committee on commerce.

The resolution calls upon each cabinet member to furnish the name of any officer or employee of his department who traveled at government expense during the last fiscal year on a ship flying a foreign flag, together with the details of the trip.

Plans issued by Foreigners.
"I am inclined to believe that the White Line which promotes American ships by American officials and employees is too often carried out under various subterfuges," Britten declared.

"It is an open secret that operators of foreign steamship companies employ every means to induce American officials to use their lines even to the extent of buying free passes to officials and his family. Of course, the trick for getting business is usually heralded abroad and the official unwittingly becomes an advertising medium."

The Ambassador in Mind.
Mr. Britten said he had in mind the most important American ambassador who would never travel by the United States and his American post on a ship which flew the American flag. He said he believed his resolution would disclose that no money was paid out of the national treasury for the ship expenses of this ambassador.

NEW YORK FIRM PLANS BUILDING 83 STORIES HIGH
New York, Dec. 15.—(Special.)—The city of New York, according to the city of New York, was made known today with the announcement that they have purchased the site upon which now stands the famous old Hippodrome theater from Frederick Brown for $1,000,000. The plot is 200x240 feet, or 48,000 square feet.

The French Tower, according to present plans, will be eighty-three stories high and will reach 1,100 feet into the sky. It is to cost $22,000,000. The firm will not pass to Fred F. French, Inc., until May 1, when the name of H. F. Keith and others will be expired.

AGREE TO KEEP DIVERSION OUT OF RIVERS BILL

Leaders Will Push Illinois Project.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—Present intentions of leaders in the fight for the Illinois waterway project are to steer clear of the Chicago water diversion controversy.

Conferences last week have resulted in a tentative understanding that the provision to be incorporated in the rivers and harbors bill shall make no mention of water diversion. It is proposed to provide that the Illinois state waterway project between Lockport and Utica shall be authorized as a federal project, and that $7,500,000 of federal funds shall be expended to complete the work.

Report from Engineers.
Before the house rivers and harbors committee drafts the bill it will have before it a report from the army engineers relating to the Illinois project. In conformity with custom, the provision in the rivers and harbors bill will authorize as a federal project the project as outlined in a specified document containing the engineers' name.

Originally it was proposed to add a clause granting authority to the secretary of war to issue a permit for such diversion of water at Chicago as may be needed for navigation in the lakes to the gulf waterway. This proposal would be certain to precipitate a fight, with members of congress from lake states other than Illinois lining up in opposition.

Leaders in the movement for federal authorization for the Illinois project who were here during the last week in attendance at the national rivers and harbors congress meeting were of the opinion that the wisest course would be to avoid the diversion issue at this time.

Agreement to Program.
It is understood that Gov. Louis E. Emerson was agreeable to this program and that William R. Dawson, president of the Mississippi Valley association, and Cleveland Newton, counsel for the association, were strongly of the opinion that the diversion issue should be avoided.

HUNT KIDNAPED "POLICY KING"; TWO ARE HELD

William (West Side) Sharkey, 3239 Austin avenue, and Leonine Costello, 23 years old, 229 East 46th street, were held at the detective bureau last night while the police were investigating the kidnapping of Walter Kelly, colored, of the Grand hotel, 334 street and South parkway, known as the "millionaire policy king." Kelly disappeared on Friday a few hours before his expensive sedan was found abandoned at 49th street and South parkway.

His brother, Ray Kelly, 3280 Calumet avenue, a son-in-law of Ald. L. R. Anderson of the Second ward, was notified of the kidnapping by an anonymous telephone call asking for $15,000. Kelly communicated with the Costello woman, who, the police say, is Walter Kelly's sweetheart, and she told Ray that she would find Sharkey. She told the police that Sharkey first said that he could do something for $15,000, but later reduced the price to $12,500.

Lieut. Al Booth, searching for Sharkey, found that he had been seized by a detective bureau squad as a crime suspect and was already being held. Sharkey denied any knowledge of the kidnapping, and the police then arrested the Costello woman. She denied that she had any interest in the affair other than her friendship for Kelly. She was arrested a year ago after the police found a quantity of opium and cocaine in her apartment.

SHERIFF SAID TO LOCATE $1,000 HUCKINS FUNDS

One-third of Amount One Litigant Seeks.

Ocala, Fla., Dec. 15.—(Special.)—Through all the estate property belonging to George H. Huckins that could be found here was in the hands of the sheriff today. His value was said to exceed $1,000, or about one-third of the amount for which Elwood Royce, local investor in the Huckins 25 per cent interest scheme, sued. Royce's suit, $3,000, the amount he says Elmer S. Huckins signed two notes for.

The case will be tried at the January term of court, when it is expected that the inner workings of the Huckins project will be revealed. Attorneys said today that other suits against George Huckins were likely. It is known that other investors who have not received interest due on Dec. 6, and to whom Huckins owes money on notes, have consulted attorneys.

Federal inspectors are due to arrive here tomorrow from Milwaukee to delve into the financial affairs of father and son with the hope of obtaining additional information for grand jury investigation.

Fred Lelzer, of the Dubuque hotel club, said today that he had a talk with the older Huckins at Hancock, Neb., last week and was informed that if the investors would let him alone and not tie his hands, everything would be straightened out satisfactorily in a short time. Lelzer is an investor, but he declined to name the amount Huckins obtained from him.

Huckins said to be ill.

Hancock, Wis., Dec. 15.—(Special.)—Huckins, "finance wizard," whose investment business pays dividends of from 10 to 45 per cent, is ill at his home here, friends said tonight. He could not be reached for comment on the lawsuit started in Ocala, Fla., to compel return of $3,000 invested by him by Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Royce.

HOLD 1, HUNT 3 IN SLAYING AT ELMWOOD PARK

One man was in custody and three others, whose names are known to the police, were being sought yesterday in connection with the murder of Albert Erickson at his roadside at 7313 Grand avenue, Elmwood Park, two months ago. Erickson was shot to death by one of four gunmen who invaded the place and demanded that Erickson and several patrons hand over their cash.

Henry Schmidt, 30 years old, 5214 Oakdale avenue, an ex-convict, is in custody. He has been identified by two women as the actual slayer. Schmidt was taken to the detective bureau from the Bridewell, where he was found serving a six months' sentence for gun toting after the police received information as to the alleged identities of the slayers. He served a seven year term at Joliet prison for robbery, according to the police records.

On Saturday, however, with all of the food and coal in the house exhausted, she appealed to the East Side police to find her husband. Leut. George Nealin heard her story and yesterday the family larder and the coal bin were filled again. ## STRIKERS VOTE TO RETURN TO WORK IN MINE

New Union Leaders Call on Strikers to Stick.

Taylorville, Ill., Dec. 15.—(Special.)—Appearing at a meeting of the National Miners' union tonight despite the existence of several warrants for his arrest, Patrick Tooley, national secretary of the union, declared coal diggers belonging to the union organization planned to continue their strike and expelled more men to join them tomorrow.

The N. M. U. meeting followed one held last night by local 2473 of the United Mine Workers of America, at which the men voted to return to work, setting three conditions: withdrawal of the military, reemployment of all striking miners, and "proper disposition" of all cases against the 18 men arrested in strike disorders.

Officers Do Not Interfere. Tooley cited the conditions set forth by the U. M. W. A. as indicative of sentiment favoring the strike. The secretary stated officers, under orders to arrest him on charges of rioting, addressed a capacity meeting at

S. ARMY STILL WITHOUT 1 TANK FIT FOR BATTLE

Need Recognized, but Model Agreed Upon.

(Chicago Tribune From Service.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—(Special.)—Will the United States actually adopt a modern fighting tank as standard equipment and change for its quick manufacture of war? This question is brought sharply before by a recent survey which revealed that eleven years of experience in the armaments has not given America a fighting force of single tank fighting tank fit for the battle.

This investigation, made at the request of the War Department, was made by the new secretary of the War Department today consists of but one light and heavy war time relics manufactured during the world war and away in moth balls after armistice.

No Agreement Reached. All attempts to replace this cumbersome, obsolete equipment with modern fighting vehicles or to use the high command of the armaments to adopt a new model which could be adopted as standard for quick manufacture in time of war have proved fruitless. Nine experimental models of light and medium tanks have been designed and tested by the Ordnance Department during the last ten years. One combined tank and armoured car has been produced by a civilian still in the army is sharply divided only upon the particular question of whether any one model in existence answers army requirements to an extent which warrants its adoption as a standard vehicle.

Thousands of words in practical explanation and in support of the adoption of new combat tanks have been written and broadcast in speeches by high ranking army officers and civilians, but the closest examination of the United States is unprepared in modern tank equipment or knowledge of how to use the modern tank in the war of the future.

No Provision in Budget. Although army officials attempt to hide this fact, inquiry discloses that the 1921 budget, sent to congress few days ago by President Hoover, does not contain one cent for the purchase of fighting tanks for service. Examination of the war department estimates shows that the recommendation of the army's first mechanism board, submitted in 1923, have almost totally ignored. This recommendation, written by Col. Charles S. Lindbergh, president of the board, recommended expenditure of $1,200,000 in 1921 for the purchase of tanks and equipment for a modern armored motorized force.

Three principal reasons are advanced to explain the delay in adoption of a light combat tank the infantry upon which a reorganization of army battle tactics and fighting equipment could be based. Explanation most frequently given times past has been the reluctance of the administration in power to spend funds for experimentation and development.

Army's Policy to Hamper. Another reason was found in slowness with which the army whole awakened to the need of equipping a speedy, powerful light tank as a replacement for the obsolete vehicles now stored in army depots. A third explanation is in the army policy of continual experimentation with new models instead of the expenditure of funds in making one particular tank for use—adoption and then continuing to improve upon it.

An inspection of the annual budget since the war reveals support for the theory that small appropriations largely responsible for the failure to maintain pace with Britain and other nations in tank modernization. The budget shows that the United States has expended probably no more than $1,000,000 on tank development in the years since the war. During the period Great Britain spent $70,000,000 in the development and manufacture of tanks, mechanized weapons and infantry carriers.

Only on one occasion since the war has the budget carried funds for the purchase of tanks for service. This was last year, when $250,000 was appropriated for the acquisition of seven light armor plated tank service tests and for incorporation into the army. The latter fund was not yet agreed upon the tanks which should be purchased.

S. ARMY STILL WITHOUT 1 TANK FIT FOR BATTLE

Model Agreed Upon.

(Chicago Tribune From Service.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—(Special.)—The United States army actually adopted a modern fighting tank as standard equipment and armament for its quick manufacture in case of war.

The question is brought sharply to the fore by a recent survey which revealed that eleven years of experiment in the armistice has not given the army's fighting forces a single model of fighting tank fit for the battle.

The investigation, made at the time the army was sworn in as the new secretary of war, disclosed that the army's entire combat tank force today consists of but 1,000 light and heavy war time relics manufactured during the world war and left in moth balls after the armistice.

No Agreement Reached.

Attempts to replace this cumbersome, obsolete equipment with speedy modern fighting vehicles or to unite the high command of the army upon a single new model which could be adopted as standard for quick manufacture in time of war have proved futile.

Nine experimental models of light and medium tanks have been sent out and tested by the ordnance department during the last ten years and one combined tank and armored car has been produced by a civilian.

Still the army is sharply divided as to the particular tank model which should be adopted but upon the question of whether any one model in existence answers army requirements to an extent which would warrant its adoption as a standard tank.

Thousands of words in praise of experimentation and in support of the development of new combat tanks in the American army have been written and broadcast in speeches by high ranking army officers and officials, but the closest examination of the equipment makes it plain that the United States is unprepared either in modern tank equipment or in knowledge of how to use the fast moving modern tank in the warfare of the future.

No Provision in Budget.

Although army officials attempted to hide this fact, inquiry discloses that the 1931 budget, sent to congress a few days ago by President Hoover, does not contain one cent for the purchase of fighting tanks for service use.

Examination of the war department estimates shows that the recommendation of the army's first mechanized unit, submitted in 1928, have been almost totally ignored. This report, written by Col. Charles S. Lincoln, president of the board, recommended expenditure of $1,300,000 in 1931 for the purchase of tanks and equipment for a modern armored motorized force.

Three principal reasons are advanced to explain the delay in the adoption of a light combat tank for the infantry upon which a reorganization of army battle tactics and fighting equipment could be based. The explanation most frequently given in times past has been the reluctance of the administration in power to supply funds for experimentation and tank development.

Army's Policy to Blame.

Another reason was found in the slowness with which the army as a whole awakened to the need of developing a speedy, powerful light tank equipped with modern rapid fire weapons as a replacement for the obsolete vehicles now stored in army warehouses. A third explanation is found in the army policy of continual experimentation with new models instead of the expenditure of funds in manufacturing one particular tank for service use—and then continuing efforts to improve upon it.

An inspection of the annual budgets since the war reveals support for the theory that small appropriations are largely responsible for the army's failure to maintain pace with Great Britain and other nations in army modernization. The budget figures show that the United States has expended probably no more than $3,000,000 on tank development in the eleven years since the war. During the same period Great Britain spent $70,000,000 in the development and manufacture for service use of tanks, mechanical weapons and infantry carriers.

Only on one occasion since the war has the budget carried funds for the purchase of tanks for service use. This was last year, when $250,000 was appropriated for the acquisition of six or seven light armor plated tanks for service tests and for incorporation into the army. The latter fund remains unexpended because the army has not yet agreed upon the type of tanks which should be purchased.

86 U. S. LICENSED WOMEN FLYERS ARE ORGANIZED

Will Promote Their Sex in Aviation.

New York, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The first national organization of licensed women pilots in America and credited with being the first in the world—has just been organized here.

The name, "The Eighty Sixers," refers to their number—their ages vary from 18 to 40.

The purpose of the organization, which was formed at the home of Mrs. George Kunz, wife of a New York jeweler and a licensed pilot, is "to promote good fellowship among licensed women pilots, encourage flying among women and create opportunities for women in commercial aviation."

Headquarters will be in New York and its membership will be open to any licensed woman pilot in the United States.

Within its ranks are some of America's best known aviators. Among them, Amelia Earhart, Ruth Elder (Mrs. Walter Camp Jr.), and Viola Gentry.

The first thing the Eighty Sixers are going to do in their program of promoting women in aviation is to wage a little war on the "sex complex" in the air.

"Just because an aviator is a woman is no reason why she shouldn't receive as good a position or as much pay as an aviator," they say. "There is no reason why men and women shouldn't compete in the air in a friendly fashion, just as they do on land."

Here Are Sectional Chairmen.

They selected the following sectional chairmen to provide over various districts in the country:

Gladys O'Donnell, west coast; Phoebe Omie, middle west; Joan Shankle, New England; Louise Thaden, Pennsylvania; Blanche Noyes, Ohio and Michigan; Laura Alexander, southeast section; and Margaret Thomas, Texas.

These sectional chairmen will act as the governing board.

No officers have as yet been selected, but three have been chosen for balloting for each office. Their names will be submitted for vote by mail to the members, and the result announced. Blanche Noyes, Mrs. George Kunz, and Louise Thaden were the three tentatively selected for president. Mrs. Kunz, meanwhile, is serving as temporary chairman.

Thus fervently spoke Hack W.

"I'll arrive in Chicago Thursday morning and will go direct to the office of President Veck of the Cubs and Hack."

"He's human and I know that I can convince him how
I want to grab that bankroll."

"I'm not defiant but I think I show Mr. Veck that I won't get bit and I won't embarrass the club.
These seem to be Mr. Veck's arguments against my fighting."

"I won't even bill myself as Hack
Wilson, much less as Hack of the Cubs or anything like that. I'll fight under my name Mr. Veck says, although am partial to Battling Stout, I being my schoolboy moniker."

Hack Bolls Up Again.

This morning Hack had just about quitted down, stealing himself to the door of Mr. Muller's earlier after 10,000, when he received a wire from Chicago boosting the ante a $10,000 to a total guarantee of $15,000.
The Cubs' star immediately declined another high fever and almost delirious when we found him on our arrival. Although Hack is $17,000 a year with the Cubs, he is no position to scoff at $15,000 for a minutes' work.

"I want to do the right thing the Cubs and I am not trying to help baseball contract argument
Hack said later on. "If in the end have to pass up this bag of gold shall not bring up the subject it comes to talking baseball."

"I think I can convince Mr. Ve-ck that I won't get hurt even if he knocks me out, which he won't do course. I know from experience the sawyer got a glass chin, but I been knocked out by better men. I Shires ever will be and it wasn't bad—just seeing canaries and brows and pretty stars—rather picture in fact."

As Hack talked he became more rest. Finally he reached the where he got up, moved the es-table in the parlor room of his hotel and shadow boxed a fast round.
He weighs 204 pounds; his footwork superb and should get better.

Hack concluded his improvised workout with the following comment: "Shires may be rugged, but I'll my cleverness will stop him. The all the bragging I am going to do after I sign with Muller."

Greater Loyalty Hath No Man

The following little scene is depictive of Wilson's loyalty to the Cubs owners. We were seated Wilson's living room at 513 street. Mrs. Wilson was not at gathering, having become ill during the day of nervous shock. But Hack's 5 year old son, was in attendance romping about the rooming candy.

When Hack's and our conversation was a bit turned to the club, saying, "Here, Bobby, if hands ain't sticky, come and sit Uncle Ed's knee and big head uncle will give you a present."

Little tot complied, and, true to promise, we reached in our pocket, gave the little fellow a stick gun.

To our surprise Bobby spurned
it. "How do you get that we be paid. "Do you want to get killed by Mr. Wrigley?"

Imagine our embarrassment as we discovered instead of proffering the child Spearman we had him a piece of Beeman's pepin.
That's typical of Wilson loyalty.

Topic of the Town
The Wilson-Shires fight is the verbal topic of this morning. That's all they think of.
about to a man Wilson's neighbors he ought to take the offer for a few minutes of fight and occupation which to date has

The discussion, entirely profane, was at the Elks' club. I learned that Hack is an Elk, and in capital letters, and the brother degree 778 have no doubt about they would do it they could take any one's place. Fifteen thousand man of chasing fly balls in that much playing for Mr. Wrigley Thompson, who got Hack which ends.

EXPANSION TO
MOST U.S. STEEL
250 MILLIONSCorporation Plans
3 Year Program.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, Dec. 15.—An expansion program that will call for the expenditure of more than $250,000,000 is being undertaken by the United States Steel Corporation. The work will be financed by the sale of new bonds and the large profits which the corporation has accumulated.

Persons of the program have already been outlined, but the full scope of the various projects is now being worked out for the first time. To a large extent the work will represent an expansion of betterments and additions to the plant and equipment of the corporation, but it will include also a number of new undertakings.

Under the program, the corporation is designed to increase the capacity of the steel-making facilities and to modernize the plant and equipment, thus bringing the plant up to the high standard which has been set. The capacity of the plant is now being increased by the addition of new blast furnaces and steel-making equipment.

The program also includes the construction of new steel-making facilities in the country, which will be financed by the sale of new bonds. The program is expected to be completed within three years.

To Consolidate
Fox Holdings
in New Trust

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, Dec. 15.—Consolidation of all the Fox holdings, including Fox Film Corporation, into a new holding company and the maintenance in the interim of regular dividend rates on the stock of the affected companies are the two things which have been definitely decided by the trustees appointed by William Fox to control his interests. It was learned today. Letters to the holders of the stock of the affected companies have been mailed out on Saturday, it is understood.

According to an authoritative source, the letter to the holders of the stock of the affected companies stated that the original plan of Mr. Fox to consolidate his holdings into the Fox Film Corporation had been found to be impractical at this time and had therefore been abandoned for the idea of a new holding company. Last September the stockholders of Fox Film Corporation approved the increase in the capital structure of the company by authorizing an issue of an additional 4,000,000 shares of class A stock of the company.

When the change was effected the directorate of the company was to be increased from 8 to 12, and the class A stockholders, who at present have no voting power, were to have the election of five of the 12 members enlarged board. It was also provided that if less than $1 was paid in dividends for four consecutive quarters the class A stockholders were to have the election of five of the 12 members until such time that dividends had been restored to the $1 a year basis, the present disbursement.

It was learned today, however, that no new certificate of incorporation had yet been filed and none of the newly authorized stock had been issued by the company, and that therefore the plan in regard to the participation in the directorate of the company of the class A stockholders has not yet become operative.

The trustees have no intention of going through with the plan of enlargement of the capitalization of the company. It is understood, but in formulating the plans for the holding company arrangements are said to be included for a wider participation of the class A holders of Fox film corporation in management of the company than has hitherto been given to this class of stock.

Dividends Unaffected.

The matter of dividends, which has been the subject of much speculation since the trusteeship was established, was stated by a source close to the trustees to be a subject which is not affected by the present position of the company. It was pointed out that earnings of the companies in the Fox holdings had been compiled and announced as being approximately $13,000,000 for the year, more detailed reports had been received by the trustees which indicated that earnings had been underestimated.

Girls Work Because They Need Money; Not for Fun

BY SCRUTATOR.

It will not be surprising if the coming census shows that the number of women gainfully employed in the United States is relatively less, in comparison with the whole population, than the number so employed in 1920. Probably those in the clerical occupations will show a normal increase.

Likewise those engaged in furnishing personal service in barber shops, manicure parlors and beauty shops may have been augmented in the last decade. But losses in the number working as domestics, in agriculture and in industry may and probably will be noted.

There are indications, here and there, that industrial concerns are not doing much to encourage women to work in their production departments. The women's bureau of the department of labor has found that women employed in American cotton manufacturing suffered a loss of 13 per cent in their average full time working wage between 1924 and 1928.

Average Wage $15.66.

The study included 35,000 women in eleven states. On the average their wages per week, if they worked full time, were $15.66. The highest average was in New Hampshire and the lowest in Alabama. The 15,000 women working in northern mills were paid $2 to $4 a week less in 1928 than in 1924. The southern states, although they still lagged in average weekly payments, held wages at about the same level as in 1924.

A disproportionate amount of talking and writing has been done about women who work because they feel they are entitled to careers. Even if they are entitled to careers, their family incomes are sufficient for them to live comfortably with working out of the home.

Such workers are confined rather largely to clerical occupations, to teaching and to other fields where personality has a value. Even in these fields economic considerations govern largely—the girls are working because they need the money and not for the kick they get out of it. It is a safe bet that nearly all who

OF BILLION DOLLAR
SECURITY MARKET

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Chicago has attained the rank of a billion dollar security market this year, according to a summary of new financing prepared by Lawrence Stern & Co., investment bankers. Stock and bond issues underwritten by investment houses having their main offices in Chicago totaled about $1,115,000,000 for the first eleven months of 1929, compared with about $775,000,000 for all of 1928, which was the previous high mark.

This year's financing falls in the following divisions: Investment trusts, $376,000,000; public utilities, $350,000,000; industrial, $287,000,000; and real estate, $102,000,000. Chicago's total of the country's new financing was 14 1/2 per cent, compared with 12 per cent in 1928 and 10 per cent in 1927.

The survey predicts that Chicago will gain in relative importance as an underwriting and distributing center next year.

PROPHETIC URGE STIRS SOULS OF SOOTHSAYERSExperts Peer Into Future.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, Dec. 15.—In last week's somewhat checkered markets, most of the incidents were those which the immediate aftermath of other panics has made long familiar.

This was true of the week's reaction on the stock exchange after the previous week's enthusiastic rise. It was equally true of the easy money market, with rates hardening only slightly on the approach of the year-end payments, and of the large gold export. Every man of experience expected all three movements; it is the next few months whose probable incidents are more obscure.

With the year-end approaching, the spirit of prophecy is beginning to stir in the financial soothsayers. It is already evident that we shall not be spared the shower of predictions on this occasion, panic or no panic. There is, to be sure, no convincing reason why long range prophecy should be more accurate around the 31st of December than on the 4th of July, for instance, or on Labor day.

What Experience Teaches.

Experience has in fact proved midwinter to be a particularly bad time to forecast clearly the course of the next twelve months in finance or industry. But the instinct behind the December prophecy is probably the same as that which governs the ordinary citizen's selection of New Year's day to make good resolutions. Nobody ever decided to reform his conduct in the midsummer.

It is still a little early for the main body of financial forecasts, but there is also a tradition that the early

Illinois Power and Light Corporation
First and Refunding Mortgage Gold Bonds
Series C, 5%, Thirty Years
Due December 1, 1956

Price 94 1/2 and Interest, Yielding Over 5% Per Cent

The Corporation agrees to pay interest without deduction for any normal Federal income tax up to 2% and to reimburse the holders of these bonds, upon application within sixty days after payment, for the California personal property tax not exceeding four mills per dollar per annum.

The following information is taken from official sources:

The corporation owns and operates electric power and light, gas, water, heat, city railway and bus properties in a large number of the most populous and prosperous municipalities in Illinois and owns or controls other important subsidiary public utility companies including The Kansas Power and Light Company, Des Moines Electric Light Company and the companies comprising the Illinois Terminal Railroad System. The corporation also owns one-fourth of the common stock of Super Power Company of Illinois and purchases a substantial portion of its output. The combined companies serve over 500 municipalities. The electric power and light properties serve over 267,000 customers.

As officially reported, for the year ended October 31, 1929, gross earnings of the system from operation, were $37,256,718; net income available for corporation bond interest, $15,057,043 or over 2.56 times the annual interest of $5,864,743 on the $107,005,300 of mortgage bonds outstanding, including this issue. Over 80% of the net earnings are derived from electric power and light, gas and miscellaneous sources other than transportation. For over twenty-four years the principal companies constituting this system have steadily increased in earning power and have paid dividends on their preferred stocks without interruption.

The First and Refunding Mortgage Bonds, in opinion of counsel, are secured by direct mortgage or collateral lien on properties appraised at a value substantially in excess of the total mortgage bonds outstanding and are a direct first mortgage or lien free of prior encumbrance on properties, including some of the most important power and light properties of the system, which alone produce net earnings greater than the annual interest requirements on the First and Refunding Mortgage Bonds outstanding.

We recommend these bonds for investment and shall be pleased to send circulars describing the issue in detail.

The Company agrees to pay interest without deduction for any normal Federal income tax up to 2% and will agree to reimburse the holders of Series F Bonds, if requested within 60 days after payment of the tax, for the Pennsylvania and Connecticut Taxes not exceeding 4 Mills for each dollar of the principal of the Bonds, and for the Massachusetts Income Tax on the interest of the Bonds not exceeding 6% of such interest per annum. Coupon Bonds in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100.

Insurance of these Bonds has been Authorized by the Railroad Commission of Wisconsin

The following information is summarized from a letter of Mr. Marshall E. Sampson, President of the Company:

The Wisconsin Power and Light Company, a Wisconsin corporation, now supplies without competition, electric light and power service to 268 communities situated in 30 counties of central and southern Wisconsin, including the cities of Beloit, Fond du Lac, Sheboygan, Janesville and Monroe. Fifteen communities are supplied with gas, 4 with water, 4 with street railway, 4 with urban bus service, 80 with interurban bus service, 4 with interurban railway service, and 2 with heating service. In addition to the territory served direct, the Company wholesales electrical energy to 65 tributary communities. The population of the territory served, directly or indirectly, is estimated to exceed 700,000, and the territory embraces the well known and prosperous manufacturing and dairying country lying west and north of the city of Milwaukee.

These Bonds, in the opinion of counsel, will, together with all other bonds issued under the Mortgage, be secured by first mortgage on important divisions constituting approximately forty-five per cent of the value of all properties now owned by the Company, and will be further secured by a direct mortgage lien on the remaining property, rights and franchises of the Company now owned or which may be hereafter acquired, subject to $12,568,600 in principal amount of divisional bonds now outstanding and by mortgage property which have been closed, and subject to all hereafter acquired property, to liens existing thereon at the time of acquisition. Additional Bonds of this series or other series may only be issued upon compliance with the provisions of the Mortgage.

For the twelve months' period ended Oct. 31, 1929, the Company reports gross earnings of $9,823,400.86 and net earnings of $3,832,160.10, which is at the rate of more than 2 1/2 times the $1,500,654.00 of annual interest requirement on the company's total funded debt to be outstanding with the public, including this issue.

This Corporation is a part of the Middle West Utilities System. The management is in the hands of experienced public utility men whose ability as economical and efficient operators has been thoroughly demonstrated.

Twelfth Night Dance to Recall King Alexander

BY THALIA

When the annual Twelfth Night dance first began some years ago, the committee made careful efforts to keep the whereabouts of each affair and the motif of the costume and decorations shrouded in deep secrecy until the very eve of the party. Nowadays, you can't get any of the Twelfth Nighters to tell what is going to happen but the news usually gets out and nobody minds very much. The invitations, always marvels of ingenuity and verbal and decorative cleverness, are due to be out in about a week now, as the party, always one of the most spirited of the season's events, takes place the Friday following the assembly. That makes its date on Jan. 10 this year, which is as near as is socially feasible to the actual twelfth night after Christmas.

I understand that the locale of this year's hall is to be the new and as yet incomplete Michigan Square building, and that the select list of invitees is to be bid to attend in garb characteristic of the time of Alexander the Great. The costume's shops will have a great run of requests for Macedonian armor, and there will be much research work done in ancient history and encyclopaedia to prepare elaborate and suitable array. There is always a quota of those who abide specially by the word of the invitation, and always a representation of those who interpret the spirit of the party facetiously.

The previous parties have included a jungle ball, a White ball set in the time of Louis the Sun King, a French revolutionary one, a Pagan ball, one representing the kingdom of the Lost Atlantis, and last year's Venetian rite.

Miss Betty Dixon, third of the Hon. L. Dixon's five daughters, made her formal bow to society at a dinner-dance the Dixons gave for her on Saturday evening at the Casino. The debutante wore a frock of egg-shell net, princess lines with high waist and ruffled skirt, and trimmed with sequins, and her bouquet was of yellow orchids. Miss Dixon's aunt, Mrs. William Dixon, is to give a large luncheon for her at the Blackstone on Wednesday.

Miss Marjorie Marlowe Ryan of New York City, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Ryan, and Paul McGuer, who resides with his uncle, William E. McGuer of 10 East Cedar street, are to be married on Saturday in the rectory of the Church of the Good Shepherd in New York City. Mr. McGuer was graduated from the University of Illinois, and is a member of Sigma Phi Sigma fraternity. He and his bride are to reside on the north side in Chicago.

The Gilbert E. Porters III. are in Miami Beach for a pre-holiday stay and are expected to return next Saturday.

Mrs. Pearl Whiting is expecting her daughter, Miss Katharine Daniels, to arrive from Smith college on Wednesday morning to be with her at the Lake Shore Drive hotel for the holidays.

Another homecoming school girl is Ruth Crockett, daughter of the Edward C. Crocketts of 1200 Lake Shore drive, who comes from Bryn Mawr on Saturday, and is to be accompanied by Miss Barbara Peek of Rock Island, Ill., who will be her house guest for the week-end. Mrs. Crockett is to give a dinner and theater party for her on Saturday evening.

The building permit list, published in the weekly Lake Forester, is always rich with material for conjecture regarding the future plans of residents who are noted. The Alden H. Swifts are about to have a new guest house built; the A. A. Carpenters, Arthur Alden, and Mrs. Francis Beldier are doing for-extended repairs; Mr. Farley Hopkins and the Misses Orta will soon have additions made to their respective houses; the Lawsons, William W. E. Clow Jr., and Clayton Mark are listed for walls, and the Charles C. Haffners for a new residence and garage.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. McCulloch have rented the Fred A. Poor residence at Miami Beach, Fla., and are to leave for the south tomorrow to remain until April 15. Then they plan to go directly to their summer place at Phelps, Wis. They have given up their apartment at 836 Lake Shore drive and have been at the Lake Shore Drive hotel for the last two months.

Church Group Starts a House to House Move to Evangelize

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.
Church unity of a convincing sort was seen in Chicago yesterday when in hundreds of churches the first official move was made in the city-wide visitation evangelistic program popularly known as the Kernahan campaign. This unified evangelistic effort was announced last night by the Rev. Dr. A. L. Ferry, vice chairman of the general committee, and pastor of the Edgewater Presbyterian church.

"The enthusiasm is contagious," Dr. Ferry declared. "The ministers of Edgewater, for instance, have always been on friendly terms, but now they are working together with enthusiasm for a common cause which is larger than our varying creeds and organizational principles."

Speaking yesterday morning in the Episcopal Church of the Advent, Logan Boulevard and Francisco street, the rector, the Rev. Gerald G. Moore, preaching on the text, "I will draw them with the cords of a man, with the bands of love," declared that the vestry and congregation of the church had entered wholeheartedly into the campaign.

"We have everything to gain and nothing to lose in this city-wide work," the Rev. Mr. Moore added. "Instead of waiting for people to come to us we are going into the community and really try to win souls for Christ. It is a return to the first century method. Christ won St. Andrew and St. Andrew won his brother, Simon Peter; Christ won St. Matthew and St. Matthew brought in his friends, the publicans and sinners, to the Master."

The closing list numbers left for good sized audience asking for more. Flowers and applause were generous throughout the afternoon.

The chief justice and Mrs. Taft gave one of their customary Sunday luncheons today in their home on Wyoming avenue. The British ambassador and Lady Isabella Howard were the ranking guests.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—President and Mrs. Hoover will be joined in the White House this week by their son. He will come from Harvard for the holiday vacation. Delano Large, nephew of Mrs. Hoover, and Miss Janet Large, her niece, also will join the family for the holidays.

Vice President Curtis has issued invitations for a dinner Jan. 4 as a compliment to the retiring British ambassador, Sir Esmé Howard, and Lady Isabella Howard. Mrs. Gann will take her place as official hostess to her brother on this occasion for the first time in their home.

CHICAGO BACH CHORUS GIVES FIRST CONCERT OF PRESENT SEASON

BY HAZEL MOORE.

The Chicago Bach chorus chose a diverse array of the works of that master to present to their Bach-minded patrons at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon in their first concert of the season. Under the accurate and Bach-wise baton of Sigfrid Prager they most ably fulfilled their task. Besides the chorus, the program called for the assistance of a quartet of soloists, a boys' choir, an organist, accompanist, and an orchestra composed of a hurried number of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, who must have leaped from broadcasting to concert hall.

Two cantatas were introduced as new to Chicago, the "Reformation" and the "Christmas," each calling for soloists, chorus and orchestra. The "Reformation," or "Ein Feste Burg," proved an entirely pleasant experience. The chorus was accurate in attack, vigorous and full throated. If, in their effort to be in the style of Bach, the men became a bit explosive, the women's voices were delightfully fresh and clear. Helen Bickerton, soprano; Edwin Kemp, tenor, and Mark Love, bass, were the soloists. Of these Mr. Love showed himself best equipped.

Edwin Stanley Seder opened the program with a good performance of the organ Prelude and Fugue in B-flat major. The orchestra played the third Brandenburg concerto and the chorus performed a capella and with the orchestra. The organist, Mr. Prager, conducted with firm intention and accurate beat.

Martha Baird, pianist, introduced herself at the Studebaker theater in a comprehensive program ranging from the Buxton arrangement of the Bach C major Toccata and the Beethoven "Waldstein" sonata, through the B-flat minor sonata by Chopin, and two Liszt numbers to the semi-modern Debussy and most modern Prokofiev. In her performance of the Chopin, Miss Baird showed herself proficient as to technique, sane as to tempi, and pleasantly conventional as to interpretation. She showed good musical manners in the "Six Visions Fugitives" by Prokofiev and real imagination in her handling of the two bits of Debussy, "Voiles" and "Feux d'Artifice."

The closing list numbers left for good sized audience asking for more. Flowers and applause were generous throughout the afternoon.

Band or Two of Fur for the Modern Tune

BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—It seems to be the ambition of many a lady of today to make her arm resemble as nearly as possible the good old curtain pole. This effect of encircling rings is most often obtained by the use of fur bands. Both coats and dresses are subject to this treatment and infinitely smart is the result.

Today we show black galayk thus applied to a smart creation from Augusta Bernard. This is made of red wool crepe and the fur is repeated in a band just below the hip line. There is a narrow belt of self-material with a brand new twist and fine horizontal tucks function both above and below this belt. The collar is far from those tailored neck finishes of previous seasons. This soft, schublike drapery of self-material is, in fact, identified with all the "ladylike" spirit of present day modes.

There is no bone button of contention—not this season. Buttons are used prodigally—just as if we needed them—and on many of the smart cloth creations they are of bone. Thus, in this case, we find the black buttons, joining with the black galayk bands in decking the front of the corsage to contrast with the red of the cloth, to be of bone.

A last word concerns the fur trimming of sleeves. So often an aspect of novelty may be given sleeve of coat or frock just by putting on the fur cuff of an old model in a different way. To make the deep wide cuff of former seasons into these encircling bands will have a reviving effect on many a mellow gown. And there are numerous ways by which we may chop up last season's coat cuff of fur into sectional trimmings.

$3,000,000 Sought to Establish Hospital for Chicago Negroes

Dr. Hugh S. Cummings, surgeon general of the United States public health service, will be the main speaker at a dinner at the Palmer house Friday night. There will be started a campaign for $3,000,000 to make Provident hospital a vast medical and educational training center for Negroes. John D. Rockefeller already has contributed $1,000,000 to the project, and the Julius Rosenwald fund and other groups have pledged $750,000 additional.

The dinner Friday night, to explain the aims and outline the objects of the campaign, is called by Julius Rosenwald, honorary chairman of the campaign; Dr. Frank Billings, President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago, and Col. Albert A. Sprague. The undertaking will be under the medical supervision of the University of Chicago.

Chicago Lying-In hospital's present quarters at 428 East First street, will be purchased with part of the funds that are being asked. Provident hospital will be moved into that building. The Lying-In hospital is soon to occupy its new home on the university campus.

The Negroes' death rate in Chicago, a recent survey brought out, is higher than the rate of natural death in Calcutta, despite the fact that this city otherwise has one of the lowest death rates and Calcutta the highest. The scarcity of Negro physicians, nurses and hospital facilities is the direct cause, authorities assert, for a Negro death rate here that is 122 per cent higher than that of the whites.

One million dollars of the $3,000,000 sought, and on which the whole program depends, will be expended for a teaching fund for the university, to build a training center for instruction of Negro students of medicine.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 15.—[Special Telegram]—"High official" in the development of a "super" movement of pulp politicians and saloon league bosses are announced in a letter by Henry B. Joy, automobile manufacturer, made tonight, giving the reasons which impelled him to resign recently from the Detroit Republican club.
Mr. Joy, who for years was out of the Packard Motor Car company, in which he is now a director, charges that Volsteadism has precipitated more evils upon America than the old saloon. He says prohibition and the enforcement measures enacted by government officials are a subversion of constitutional principle and that the federal government with its half trigger gunmen are a slaughter of innocent victims, setting an example for holdup murderers and housebreakers.

Forced to Quit, He Says.
Mr. Joy says he is a "died in wool" Republican, but that he cannot conscientiously support "any" organization which does not put out in open opposition to "these conditions." Hence his resignation.
"My difficulty is that there has been growing upon me for these years past a condition of mental harassment," writes Col. Joy. Arthur E. Wood, president of the United Republican club, "I am in the wool Republican. I hate to say it. I probably am too fat and outspoken in my attitude to affairs. It is an unfortunate condition to possess, perhaps, but born that way."
"One of my difficulties is the critical attitude from government states down through very many politicians and office holders, as a matter of prohibition.
"As I view it, behind prohibition are practices by our government which national and state, which are totally subversive to principles mental in our government.

One Judge Quit in Disgust.
"I have known a United States district court judge to resign from bench because he could not conscientiously inflict long terms of imprisonment and heavy fines upon men he regarded as having committed real crime, though they had violated the eighteenth amendment and Volstead act. I very greatly respect him for his conscientious attitude."
"I have known a United States district court judge who sent a man to prison for long terms and levied heavy fines for violation of the prohibition laws, and who was not to retaliate himself with alcoholic beverages. I have known a judge of states who presided over prohibition enforcement who are not averse to indulging in alcoholic beverages. Do you see any such? And who have courage to speak out and stand in opposition between men?"

Sorry He Voted Dry.
"I, myself, was deluded in going for our prohibition law, frankly, ask the forgiveness of the people for my having done so."
"The evil conditions which have come upon the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act, and the enforcement of the states of Michigan and other states are, as I regard the causes of vastly more evil resulted in the old days from them. Though I have always heartily opposed to the saloon methods, and am glad gone forever and eliminated discussion totally, I regret the other hand, the fanatical toward the alcoholic beverage of extremists, and I regret words to express the total by in high official places, brought by existing conditions.

Too Much Shooting.
"The free and liberal use of arms by our government officials in America is exceedingly foolish. The slaughter of a great number of innocent people from our country has been, however, wicked in the extreme."
"The arguments for ten years advocating the 18th amendment and the Volstead act were the conditions would come to the empty prisons and jails, and churches and hospitals; that would cease to exist, etc., etc. Salacious such talk has proved a crime in its highest degree."
